KING MAKING DECISION TONIGHT!

Ask Strike-Bound Ships To Use Newport Harbor

GRAND JUROR TELLS NEW SCHEME

Anti-Picket Law Seen As Protection for Cargo Workers

Orange county's harbor at Newport-Balboa may be used to break the maritime strike now paralyzing ports along the western seacoast.

This disclosure was made today by a member of the county grand jury, who said that steamship companies will immediately be sent copies of the county's new anti-picketing law, which goes into effect Dec. 24. The companies will be invited to use the Orange county harbor.

Ample Protection

Possibilities that huge passenger and freight steamers will anchor off the county coast and lighter their cargoes into Newport bay, and that coastwise freighters may unload here instead of at Escondido, were indicated in the announcement. Ample protection would be given steamship lines by the new ordinance, it was pointed out.

Proponents of the plan are acting purely for protection of industry and the population of Southern California in backing such a movement, it was said today, and do not wish in any way to thwart labor organizations in their present fight with their employers.

Best Location

Only one other county along the state's coastline has an ordinance similar to the Orange county law, it was pointed out. In Monterey, anti-picketing laws also would allow boats to unload, but the port at Santa Cruz, experts said, is not so well situated for operations as the county's harbor here.

Huge ocean liners which have been unloading passengers at Escondido, Baja California, could anchor a short distance off Newport and send their human freight ashore in smaller craft, according to the plan.

Ships Could Dock

Smaller freighters, which ply between coastal points, could enter the local port, where channels have a depth of 20 feet at low tide, unload, and goods could be carried by truck to other points.

Proponents of the plan also pointed out that the peninsula at Newport would be ideally suited for protection against any attacks, due to the single stretch of highway which traverses the length of the narrow strip.

POPE KEEPS TO HIS BED

VATICAN CITY. (AP)—Sudden chill weather ruined the hope of Pope Pius XI to leave his bed today and resume his full routine of active duty.

Despite continued improvement in the Holy Father's condition, Vatican officials said it was considered unwise for him to risk exposure.

Law Overtakes Houses on Wheels

Santa Ana had a new "menace" to face today.

It was the "menace" of the house-on-wheels, the new American abode which tags along behind a speeding automobile.

The city council dealt deftly with the situation last night, giving first reading to an ordinance which will regulate the housing of trailers as living quarters in the city of Santa Ana. The law says that the trailers can stop, how they can stop and provides sanitary regulations.

But the sanitation angle that constitutes the menace in the eyes of the health department. The house trailers, after the new law becomes effective, can stop only at camp grounds. Nary a wheel can be removed, lest the trailer become a permanent home.

Journal Provides Exclusive News Of Farm Conclave

The Santa Ana Journal gave its readers another exclusive service today.

The Journal is the only newspaper in Orange county which has had a representative at the Farm bureau conventions in Pasadena. It is the only newspaper in Orange county supplying news of this convention written by an Orange county man who understands Orange county's problems.

Yesterday The Journal had important convention news which was not published in any other newspaper. Today it furnishes its readers with two more exclusive articles. This is only an example of the way The Journal is striving to give its readers the best newspaper coverage in Orange county every day.

SHIP STRIKE BREAK SEEN

Signs of Progress Are Reported in Peace Negotiations

By the Associated Press

Signs of progress in negotiations to settle the Pacific coast maritime walkout held the center of attention along the nation's strike front today.

Coastwise ship operators and union spokesmen at San Francisco agreed to debate the strike issues publicly tonight. Edward F. McGrady, assistant secretary of labor, said a break was indicated in the 40-day blockade of coast ports.

A demand by Judge C. M. Davidson for Gov. Philip F. LaFollette to call out the militia marked the deadlock of the strike of J. I. Case Company employees at Racine, Wis. Judge Davidson asserted strikers failed to heed his injunction limiting the number of pickets at the plants.

Big Four Railroad brotherhoods started a strike vote among 3000 Santa Fe railroad employees west of Albuquerque, N. M. Wage increases for engineers were at issue.

A sudden strike of 180 motor bus drivers forced thousands of Flint, Mich., residents to shift for themselves. Those without private automobiles used taxis or hitchhiked to work.

Denies Aimee To Be Ousted

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Aimee Semple McPherson's business manager today flatly denied reports she might be ousted from control at the January convention of her international Foursquare Gospel church.

Discord within the officialdom of Angelus temple was the basis of speculation she might be succeeded in power.

But Giles Knight, the temple manager, quoted article VI of the articles of incorporation to prove his point. It read: "The office of the president shall be held by Aimee Semple McPherson during her lifetime."

FARM LEADER HITS CUBAN IMPORTS

Local Grower Launches Fight at Convention To Save Avocados

By PAUL BODENHAMER

Judge F. D. Halm of La Habra today carried to the floor of the California Farm Bureau federation convention at Pasadena, a fight to protect Southern California avocados from ruinous, duty-free Cuban imports.

Other major developments of the convention yesterday and today in which Orange county agricultural leaders took an active lead were:

A strong movement to consolidate agriculture against attacks by radical labor organizations by strengthening of anti-picketing, trespass, and similar laws, and by a concerted drive for the open shop.

Walnut Issue

Resolutions calling for state laws to give farmers a lien on their crops in the hands of processors until they are paid for.

A drive to establish a separate edible nut department in the State Farm bureau to give walnuts and almonds more representation.

Support of the California prorate act and launching of studies to achieve effective cooperative marketing of vegetables and field crops, with emphasis on canning crops.

Requests that nightly frost warning broadcasts, which may be discontinued Jan. 1, be continued for the protection of citrus.

Ready For Battle

Judge Halm, who is known as the "father" of avocado departments in Southern California Farm bureaus, stirred the state avocado committee of which he is chairman for a battle to secure united backing of all California for revision of reciprocal trade agreements with Cuba.

Under the existing agreement, duty-free imports are allowed in June, July, August, and September, month in which 90 per cent of the Cuban crop is mature, Judge Halm said, pointing out that the agreement was made before the strike.

PRISON BREAK FRUSTRATED

COLUMBUS, Ohio. (AP)—An escape plot's abrupt failure, as predicted by a doomed killer who refused to go along, led to solitary cells today for six desperation-goaded Ohio penitentiary convicts.

Armed with dummy pistols, a coil of line, wire cutters, files and razor-edged "shivs," or knives, the six overpowered two guards and attempted late yesterday to cut their way out of the prison's "idle house," dormitory for dangerous men.

They might have won at least to the outer wall had not a non-participating convict set fire to his bedding to attract tower guards' attention.

TO BROADCAST NEW YEAR'S GRID GAME

Becomes Member of Don Lee-Mutual Chain of Radio Stations

KVOE, in the biggest radio "scoop" of the year, announced today it will broadcast President Roosevelt's inauguration for Orange county listeners. In a second big smash, KVOE will broadcast the Sugar Bowl football classic between Santa Clara university and Louisiana State university on New Year's day.

These are but two in a long series of Big Time programs to come. KVOE has joined the 41-station network of the Don Lee-Mutual Broadcasting system. A galaxy of national radio programs from this network will come to Orange county over KVOE beginning Dec. 29.

To Provide the Best

Announcement of the network arrangement, marking one of the most important steps in Orange county's radio history, was made today by E. L. Spencer and Wallace Wiggins of KVOE.

The best in national radio entertainment will be broadcast here, marking the broadcast of network programs from an Orange county station for the first time, in addition to local interest programs already being broadcast by the county's only station.

Coast to Coast

The Santa Ana station will join the network along with eight other California stations, including the present Don Lee chain, which makes the change on the same date.

NINE DEATHS FROM COLD

(By the Associated Press)

Moderating weather today marked the apparent end of winter's first sub-zero thrust into the Midwest. At least nine deaths were attributed to the cold.

In Illinois the mercury rose zero where the outlook in the Dakotas and Minnesota, where the frigid wave was held accountable for six deaths. A light snow covered most of the Northwest. Low for that area last night was 11 below at Dickinson, N. D.

In Illinois the mercury rose gradually from yesterday's lows. Three cold-induced deaths were counted in the Chicago area.

A break into the sub-zero temperatures reached Nebraska. Roads were slick with snow and ice.

The weather bureau predicted temperatures down to 25 at Philadelphia, 20 at Washington, 8 in Ohio and 15 in New Jersey.

Fined for Dumping Oil on Streets

Jack Brown, Huntington Beach oil purveyor, today had paid $150 in fines for dumping waste water and oil into the streets and sewer lines of Huntington Beach, thence into the ocean.

Both the city of Huntington Beach and the California fish and game commission filed charges against Brown, charging the waste oil not only damaged the city's sewage treatment plant, but polluted ocean water. The case was heard before Judge Chris Pann.

Boy's Story Closes Gin Shop Which Sold Liquor

LOUIS GREEN WILL LOSE LICENSE

State Board to Padlock Store Today After Hearing Evidence

It doesn't pay to sell liquor to 16-year-old boys.

Louis C. Green, Huntington Beach liquor dealer, found that out today as the state board of equalization revoked his license and prepared to padlock his place of business because a 16-year-old boy testified he had bought liquor there.

Green's case flared into the limelight when a 16-year-old boy was found in a stupor in a ditch between Huntington Beach and Anaheim. A flask emptied of cheap gin was beside him. Announcement of the closing was made by H. E. McKenzie, in charge of the state board office here.

Acquitted By Jury

The youth told officers he had paid Green 40 cents for the pint of gin, and the liquor seller was arrested shortly afterwards. Green beat the charge placed against him when a jury in the Huntington Beach justice court found him not guilty after Green had claimed that he must have been out of his store when the boy got the liquor.

It was testified that the boy had secured liquor at the store on two different occasions, one time buying two bottles. One of the purchases was made at 11 p. m.

Results of a hearing before state board of equalization officers held in Santa Ana Nov. 12 were forwarded to the board, which felt differently about the case than did the Huntington Beach jury. The announcement was made to McKenzie by George M. Stout, administrator at Sacramento.

To Close Shop

Today the local board officers received word that the state board has ordered Green's license revoked. The officers said they would close Green's place of business today, marking finis to the case.

Word also was received today that the liquor licenses of R. Rodriguez, owner of the El Faro grocery stores in Santa Ana and Fullerton, have been suspended for 30 days as punishment for allowing drinking on the premises.

SPANISH DEATH TOLL 500,000

NEW YORK. (AP)—Estimate of a Spanish death toll of more than 500,000, with only a small proportion battle casualties, was brought back by Read Admiral Cary T. Grayson, chairman of the American Red Cross.

Grayson, who returned yesterday from the biennial meeting of the League of Red Cross Societies of the World in Paris, said "executions in Spain have been practiced as a wholesale measure. Reliable reports indicate that nearly 25,000 outstanding persons in Madrid alone have been slain, even though they were non-combatants."

Water Program Costs Bared

First of the big steps to be taken toward completion of Orange county's $13,000,000 flood control program, was finished today. Federal land bank appraisers appointed by the board of supervisors several months ago, handed to the board their completed appraisal figures for all lands to be purchased as rights-of-way. Lowest of the three alternate figures to be considered was $1,204,012 with the next at $1,572,127, and the highest at $1,884,267.

Not Final Total

The appraisals are for land values up to the 1916 flood level, and in some instances above, but do not include probable cost of flood easements before that level, or probable costs of realignment of roads, highways and railroads, the appraisers said.

In any case, it was pointed out by the board, the figures as presented today are no indication of the probable cost of the county bond election for purchase or condemnation of lands.

Negotiations are under way with water companies owning about 40 per cent of the 6000 acres to be acquired, which might considerably lower the final figure, Supervisor Willard Smith said. Agreement with other property owners might result in lowering or raising of the final figure.

Prado Dam Figures

Estimated costs of realignments to be made is $600,000. This figure may be added to the final total of appraisals, or the U. S. army engineers in charge may include it in their appropriation from congress.

Largest single unit of the project is the Prado dam. Three alternate figures were presented, $1,023,150, $1,339,805, or $1,634,445. The lowest of the three figures is for appraisal of lands to the 1916 flood level.

Alternate figures also were presented on the Brea dam project, of $26,470, or $67,430. Three alternate figures on the San Juan Dam project were presented, of $22,500, $33,000, and $50,000.

Other Estimates

Cost for the Santiago dam was estimated at $7960. However, it was pointed out that the county, by agreement with private owners of the present Santiago dam, would be required to reimburse them for their previous expenditures. Estimated cost to be added here would be in the neighborhood of $40,000.

Other units of the project, and their land values appraisals, are: Brea channel, $10,191; Carbon dam, $4130; Fullerton dam, $40,360; Loftus diversion, $5400; Trabuco dam, $8045; Aliso dam, $1200; Santa Ana River channel, $20,846; Carbon conduit, $26,645; Brea pipe line, $1115.

ALL ENGLAND IS AWAITING FINAL WORD

Announcement Due to Be Made Tomorrow To Parliament

By FRANK H. KING

LONDON. (AP)—Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin reached Fort Belvedere this evening—summoned by his king—presumably to receive the final decision of Edward VIII on renunciation of either his throne or Wallis Warfield Simpson.

The premier hastened over the icy roads from London in an hour and 15 minutes to enter the gates of the royal lodge in the gathering darkness, while suspense hung heavy over London, England and the empire.

Announcement Tomorrow

It generally was believed the decision, even if given tonight at Fort Belvedere, would be withheld from the public until Baldwin has an opportunity to communicate it to commons.

If the answer is abdication, the king might give the tip-off by quick flight from the country. Edward's youngest brother, the Duke of Kent, was believed to have participated in tonight's crucial meeting. He drove alone to Fort Belvedere this morning. There also were reports that the motor car of the Duke of York, Edward's heir-presumptive, had been seen entering a side entrance of the estate.

Breathless Waiting

Generally, in view of Mrs. Simpson's statement of her willingness to sacrifice the king rather than hurt the sovereign or the throne, the British public was hopeful its monarch had decided the crown comes first.

Those who expected the king to give the first minister his final word pointed out that every day's delay was costing the empire's industry thousands of pounds.

Business at Standstill

The vast amount of business pointed toward a coronation next May was at a standstill.

Edward, these persons said, would be as anxious as any of his subjects to return Great Britain to normal. Unless he has made up his mind, they asserted, there could be but little reason for another conference with Baldwin.

Before the first minister went to Fort Belvedere with advisers to both the king and his heir-presumptive, a privately chartered airplane flew the channel in treacherous weather from Croydon and finally wound up, near Marseille, France, for an overnight stop en route to Cannes.

Mrs. Simpson is at Cannes, but the plane's errand remained vague. A late report said one of the passengers was at a standstill.

RIFLES BLAST NEXT SUNDAY

Old-timers will start shooting things up hereabouts next Sunday.

The occasion will be the fourth annual muzzle-loader match to be staged at the Santiago rifle range, Irvine park. Flintlocks and percussion rifles, dueling pistols and other ancient arms will be used by more than 50 marksmen in the annual contest, according to Dr. Roy Horton, local gun collector.

Bullets which will be used will be made by the contestants themselves, because they are not manufactured any longer. Some of the ancient guns which will be fired date back as far as 1750 and were used in the Revolutionary war.

The contest is sponsored by the Southern California Arms Collectors association.

Is A Congressman Human?

When a new congressman comes to Washington, he is only one of 435 house members or of 96 senators. It's quite a job for him to learn all the rules of congressional procedure and etiquette, of capital society, and of living conditions in a unique city. Eddy Gilmore of the Washington staff of the Associated Press has written—with tongue in cheek—a series of advisory articles for new congressmen and their friends. Start reading this congressional primer today on page 7.

BURKE, BERRY GO ON TRIAL TOMORROW

To Face Charges Arising Out of Ad Published Before Election

A pre-election bombshell which was planted under Supervisor W. C. Jerome's nose just before the business of Nov. 3 and was tossed by Jerome at J. F. Burke and A. B. Berry is slated to go boom tomorrow morning.

Burke, former Santa Ana newspaper publisher, and Berry, editor of weekly tabloid Santa Ana Independent, will go to trial before a jury in Justice Kenneth Morrisson's court at 9 a. m. tomorrow on charges of authorizing and publishing an anonymous political advertisement.

Files Complaint
The charges were filed by Jerome after Berry's newspaper had printed a series of advertisements pertaining to the Jerome-Steele Finley supervisory race, which Jerome lost, signed "Citizens Inquirers League." Jerome filed the complaint on the basis of a state law which makes it a misdemeanor for anyone to publish or authorize for publication political advertising designed to injure or defeat a candidate for office, without first signing the advertisement with the name of some responsible officer of the organization sponsoring the ad.

Burke and Berry were arrested on the charges, which started a storm of legal actions and allegations.

Label Suit
Burke has filed a $50,000 false arrest suit against Jerome, charging he was held for one hour in the county jail before being released on $100 bail. Berry, who was booked at the jail and then released on the same amount of bail, has also pleaded not guilty to the charges.

Berry also filed a $10,000 libel suit against William Iverson, official of the Eden Refining company connected with a county investigation of alleged muddy road oil purchases. Berry's suit charges that Iverson, in attempting to answer some of the charges against Jerome, referred to the Independent as a "Scandal sheet."

Schools Sued for Boy's Injuries

The Santa Ana school district, board of education, School Superintendent F. C. Henderson and Secretary G. C. Newcom were sued in superior court today for $25,241.05 by father of 4-year-old Oscar Rivera.

The child suffered a fractured skull last Aug. 20, when he fell from a piece of playground equipment at the Lincoln school grounds. His father, Jesus Rivera, charges negligence on the part of the school, in that the playground was not guarded.

Robert R. Stentz, Los Angeles, is attorney for Rivera.

German Warship Smashes Wall
KIEL, Germany. (AP)—Germany's newest 26,000-ton battleship the Grienau, slipped out of control today at its christening and crashed into a stone wall, while Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler and other high government officials watched.

The ship slid down the ways so rapidly it plunged clear across the narrow straits and tore a hole 16 feet wide and seven feet deep in the stone embankment on the opposite side.

Winter's Officially Here!

There can be no doubt about its being winter down South, for big Walt Cagle, 325-pound hanger of cold weather at Boaz, Ala., has made it officially by going to town to buy his heavy clothing. NASON PREFERS ROAD OIL PROBE STATE PRISON IS DEFERRED

Howard F. Nason, former Tuslin minister, faced with the alternative of San Quentin prison for the rest of his life, or a life in an insane asylum, today chose prison.

"Taking the stand in his own defense, Nason, charged with moral crimes against nine small boys, thundered a dramatic denunciation of court proceedings and prosecution. His only plea is not guilty by reason of insanity.

"Certainly I know the difference between right and wrong," he cried. "And I am not crazy, either!" A verdict of sanity would automatically carry a state prison sentence.

He "delir" Assistant District Attorney James L. Davis to show that he had done anything but lead many boys from "paths of wrong into the right life."

A bevy of expert medical witnesses testified for the defense in the closing moments of its case. The prosecution was expected to open its rebuttal this afternoon. The case is being tried before a jury of seven women and five men.

CONVICT GIRL AS SMUGGLER

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—A federal court jury needed only 15 minutes today to convict Maria Wendt, pretty Eurasian, of attempting to smuggle $100,000 worth of narcotics into the United States.

Miss Wendt received the verdict sitting in her wheel-chair, her calm unshaken. She was convicted on two counts, one of smuggling and one of concealing narcotics. Each carries a maximum sentence of 10 years and a fine of $5000.

Noted Novelist Wins Divorce

WAYCROSS, Ga. (AP)—The high school romance of Caroline Miller, prize winning novelist, was ended today in a divorce blamed by her husband on her success as a writer.

The young Georgia woman who received the Pulitzer prize four years ago for her story of backwoods life, "Lamb in His Bosom," was granted an uncontested decree yesterday.

Several weeks ago Will D. Miller, whom she married after a classroom romance in which he was the high school instructor and she his pupil, contended in a deposition over custody of their three children that they got along well until his wife, "got pleasure mad after writing the book."

Farm Office to Close Tomorrow

Orange County Farm bureau office will be closed all day tomorrow as ranchers and farmers, nearly 1000 strong, go from here to the opening of the American Farm bureau convention at Pasadena.

Principal attractions will be a picnic for 10,000 persons, and an address by Secretary of Agriculture Henry Wallace.

U. S. Bond Issue Oversubscribed

WASHINGTON. (AP)—Oversubscribed fourfold in the first day of offering, the treasury's issue of $700,000,000 in bonds, part of a $1,486,651,000 December financing plan, was closed today.

The interest rate of 2 1/2 per cent on the 13-17 year bonds was one of the lowest in history.

MORGAN MAY BE CALLED IN PROBE

WASHINGTON. (AP)—Probability that J. P. Morgan would be summoned to a capital witness stand for the third time in four years grew today amid speculation by senate investigators on his reasons for relinquishing control of the nation's largest transportation system.

Testimony that a Morgan banking syndicate sold control of the $5,000,000,000 Van Sweringen rail and industrial empire for $274,682 climaxed the opening sessions of the senate's long prepared railway financing investigation.

A frail, bespectacled glass jar maker, George A. Ball of Muncie, Ind.—told the committee yesterday he bought the controlling stocks of the 23,000-mile railway network at auction in 1935.

Chairman Wheeler (D., Mont.) commented it appeared Ball had acquired direction of the Van Sweringen holdings at "about the price of two first-class locomotives."

"If you want to put it that way," Ball said. Since the death last month of O. P. Van Sweringen, Ball said, he has held control of 249 interlinking companies—including seven major railways, coal mines, department stores, trucking lines, parking lots and a peach orchard. He is the Republican national committeeman for Indiana.

Lions Club Chief To Visit City

George Lickteig of Oakland, district governor of Lions International, will be in Santa Ana Thursday to attend a meeting of the local Lions club, it was announced today.

Lickteig, elected last summer, governs Lions clubs in the state of California, totalling more than 150 groups. Other clubs in Orange county have been invited to attend the meeting, it was announced by R. R. Hays, jr., president of the Santa Ana club.

La Habra Asks $866 From Gas Tax

La Habra asked Orange county for $866.35 today. It wants the money to be allocated from the county gas tax fund, for use in patching up resurfacing five La Habra streets.

The projects are Florence street, $379.90; Wallace street, $107.25; Hazel street, $171.90; Erna street, $123.50; Park street, $83.80.

The resolution was handed to Road Engineer Nat Neff for his approval.

sengers was a member of the firm of solicitors which represented Mrs. Simpson when she obtained her divorce nisi from Ernest Aldrich Simpson, Oct. 27.

Under present arrangements, the divorce will become final automatically on April 27. It could be made final earlier.

Other, and earlier, reports, said two home office officials and a physician occupied the plane. Apparently the passengers left the ship at Le Bourget, France.

In London, Queen Mary cancelled an afternoon visit to an exhibition of pictures of British and European crowns, jewels and other royal regalia at the Leicester Square gallery.

Cabinet Meets at 11
It was announced the cabinet expected to hold its regular meeting tomorrow, at 11 a. m.

With the croydon "mystery plane" staying for the night at Marginalia, near Marseille, reports reaching London that its passengers had proceeded by automobile to Cannes.

The pilot, it was believed, will proceed to Cannes tomorrow morning to await instructions.

The king's repeated consultations with high officials of the duchy led to reports that some sort of financial arrangements are under consideration.

Unprecedented Situation
The king receives about $595,000 annually from the Duchy of Cornwall and about $450,000 from the Duchy of Lancaster. The latter has been an appanage of the throne since the 14th century.

The title lands of Cornwall, by royal charter, pass to the eldest son of the king or, lacking a son, revert to the sovereign.

Since Edward's abdication would create an unprecedented situation as regards these revenues, it has been assumed by most observers that parliament would be obliged to make some provision by special legislation.

REPORT WALLY WANTS MORGANATIC MARRIAGE
CANNES, France. (AP)—Wallis Warfield Simpson, friends close to the American beauty said today, is determined to fight for a morganatic marriage with King Edward VIII despite her offer to give him up.

Mrs. Simpson's friends said she still hoped the king would triumph in his determination to marry her and still keep his throne.

They expressed the "strong belief" that Mrs. Simpson's statement was indicated from quarters close to the king in London and said they both revealed a determination in the telephone talks that preceded the signing of the statement to "fight to the bitter end" for a morganatic marriage.

ment in effect lifts all restrictions. Further, he said, avocados grow wild in Cuba, where they are used principally as hog and cattle feed, and there are not more than half a dozen commercial plantings.

Huge Imports
This year California Avocado association, which handles about 80 per cent of the total United States crop, marketed 7,208,000 pounds of avocados in eight months, while Cuba exported to the United States 9,461,000 pounds in four months.

There have been no commercial plantings of avocados in Orange county in the three years that the sheriff's fruit patrol has been in operation, it was brought out. F. J. Hanson of San Diego county secured backing for a law which would allow justices of the peace to impose fines up to $500 and sentences up to two years for avocado thievery. He said losses are heavy in the southern county.

Liens On Crops
At the request of crop deciduous and canning crop groups, the resolutions committee today reported to the convention a resolution calling for farmers' liens on their crops.

It was pointed out that if a processor or handler goes broke, laborers, warehouse men, and others have prior liens and that the farmer cannot get his pay until all others have been satisfied.

By combining with almond growers, A. D. Smiley of Garden Grove founded support for his plan to create a walnut department, which was reported out of committee yesterday as an edible nut department.

To Vote Today
The deciduous department recommended the new department plan for a vote today in the convention.

Canning crops men reviewed the many needs of their industry and launched into a concerted effort at cooperative marketing, patterned after the California Fruit Growers exchange, as a partial solution.

B. H. Shepley, chairman of the California prorate commission, reported that many commission merchants "chisel" the farmer, rather than handling produce on a percentage basis.

John B. Schneider of the University of California extension service pointed the need of further economic studies for future working of prorate, warning that monopoly methods will boomerang against farmers.

Hard Workers
Principal requests of the group were that the American Farm Bureau federation establish a canning crops department for nationwide study and action; that purity standards be made more practical, and that the University of California appoint a truck crop specialist.

The convention proved to be the folksiest, hardest-working convention ever assembled in Pasadena. The free orange juice booth was busy all day.

Miss Lizzetta Phillips of Santa Ana, secretary for the farm bureau chorus, must remain in a Pasadena hotel room for two or three days as the result of an accident on the way to the convention, her attending physician said.

Joint Meet
When a car driven by Mrs. Frank Pierce, with Miss Phillips and Miss Ruth Armstrong as passengers, crashed into a stalled car on a hill crest at San Gabriel, Miss Phillips' head was forced through the windshield, resulting in severe bruises and cuts. Her thumb, at first thought broken, was found badly sprained.

Tomorrow the state and national Farm Bureau federations will meet jointly as the latter opens with a barbecue for 10,000 persons in Brookside park with Secretary of Agriculture Henry Wallace as guest.

Among major objectives of the convention today were exemption of farmers and their cooperatives from the gross receipts trucking tax; repeal of the law that finances the state railroad commission by a tax on gross receipts of carriers; continued support of market legislation, and reduction of the state debt and general government cost.

RETURN TO GROWERS UNDER AAA IS TOLD
PASADENA. (AP)—The "business end" of organized farming in California took the limelight today at the State Farm Bureau Federation convention, largest in its 18-year history.

Secretary-Treasurer Alex Johnson, Berkeley, reported that under operation of the agricultural prorate act, which the farm bureau sponsored, growers of four crops above the 10 affected have received an additional $695,000 a month for their products. Cost of operating the program, he said, ranged only from $1000 to $7000 a month for these four crops during their seasons.

Johnson also said California walnut growers received $515,000 more under the surplus crop diversion program of the national AAA than they would have otherwise. It is expected that the walnut men still will receive about $725,000 more, he asserted.

Fight Rate Increase
California farmers and ranchers working through the farm bureau will conduct a finish fight against proposals of truck and rail carriers to raise freight rates on agricultural commodities, Joe J. Deuel, director of the bureau's law and utilities department, reported to the convention.

Annual interest on the farm mortgage debt in the United States has been reduced by about $180,000,000 since 1930. Gov. W. I. Myers of the Farm Credit Administration told the convention. This reduction is practically the same, he said, as increasing farmers' purchasing power by that sum.

WILL REBUILD PLACENTIA'S STORE AREA

Possibility that an assessment district may be formed to finance remodeling of the business district of Placentia was rumored there today, following a discussion of the matter by the city council Monday night.

Work already has been started on widening of Santa Fe avenue, the town's business street, one block west of the present shopping section. Property owners on the south side of the street, who at one time agreed to pay a part of the expense of purchasing land on the opposite side, and for demolition of business fronts, have been hanging back in paying for their share of the work, councilmen said.

Oppose Widening
As a result, a district may be formed to complete the work, which would raise the cost from between $50 and $85 to almost $300 per lot. The huge increase would be due to fees for engineers, attorneys, newspaper advertising and appraisers, it was announced.

Property owners in the business block between Main and Bradford streets have indicated they do not wish to widen that portion of the thoroughfare, and as a result, if owners of property in the modernized section follow the council's suggestion and remodel their business houses, the major portion of the shopping district is expected to move one block westward.

Wreck Building
Cost of the entire widening project, including the block between Main and Bradford streets, was estimated at $35,000 by City Engineer George Bates. At present one building is being partially wrecked to allow widening of the street, and work on others will start soon.

City gasoline tax funds will be used for the widening between Murray and Main streets, west of the main business district, the council decided. A promise was made by county officials that the same street will be widened and straightened between Murray street and Placentia avenue as soon as possible, it was reported. The latter project would tie in with reported widening of Commonwealth avenue in Fullerton, which eventually is expected to be carried through the C. C. Chapman property and connect directly with the main street of Placentia.

Chaney Tells of Money Function

Money is sound if it performs certain functions, said Homer C. Chaney at the forum program last night in the high school auditorium.

The speaker elaborated upon four functions which he said money must be able to perform if it is to be sound and acceptable to the people. Money must be able to store great value in such form that it may be easily moved, he said. A second function of money is to measure value, he declared.

Third function of money, Chaney said, is as a standard of deferred payment. All investments, he said, are dependent upon this function of money. The fourth function is the value of money as a medium of exchange, he declared.

FARM GROUPS WILL FIGHT AGITATORS

Convention Resolutions Prepared to Offset Labor Trouble

By PAUL BODENHAMER

California agriculture girded its loins today for an anticipated struggle with labor uprisings and strikes.

Five labor resolutions, hoiled down from a much greater number by the California Farm Bureau federation resolutions committee, were reported to the convention in Pasadena today.

Stuart Strathman of Placentia, growers' representative here during the bitter citrus strike six months ago, appeared before a sub-committee to aid in drawing up the resolutions.

Urges Open Shop

Charging that practically all of the agricultural strikes have been fomented by communistic or left-wing subversive groups against the will of the majority of workers, the principal resolution urged a study of labor problems; endorsed county ordinances regulating picketing; endorsed governmental action against fomenters of unauthorized strikes; urged an "open shop"; and supported the criminal syndicalism act.

Strike Threat

"We vigorously oppose the use of funds intended for poor and needy for the relief of unemployed participating in strikes, or those who voluntarily refuse employment," read another resolution which was to be voted upon today.

Frank Lyons, vice chairman of the vegetable department, told farmers that the northern celery strike was managed by non-agricultural men, many with criminal records, who boasted they will carry the fight to all California crops.

Growers assessed themselves 50 cents per acre for a war chest to hire professional guards, he reported.

A speaker from Salinas advised growers to build fences around their packing houses and hold secret meetings.

"Don't tell anyone what you do, and don't let newspaper reporters in," he told the group.

Invite Growers to See Experiments

Citrus growers of Orange county today were invited to inspect the research plots at the Riverside citrus experiment station on Dec. 17.

That day is Orange County day, according to Farm Advisor Harold E. Wahlberg.

The auto tour will assemble at two points in Orange county. Growers in the northern part of the county will assemble at the Santa Fe depot, Placentia, and leave at 8:30 a. m. Those from the south or west will meet at the Olive packing houses and leave at 8:30 a. m.

Growers were asked to take basket lunch. Coffee will be provided.

Townsend Clubs

All persons interested in the Townsend movement are cordially invited to attend any of the club sessions, particularly those held in their own neighborhoods. Members are also urged to turn out regularly.

Club No. 9 will meet Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. at the Edison school.

Club No. 6 will postpone its scheduled meeting tonight in order to join in the mass meeting at Townsend headquarters.

W. R. C. TO ELECT

Sedwick camp No. 17 of the Women's Relief corps will have its annual election of officers at a meeting scheduled for Wednesday at 2 p. m. in the M. W. A. hall.

Townsend News, Views

By WALTER R. ROBB

(This is a non-political, non-partisan column dealing in Townsendian views, and written by a prominent Townsend leader. Any opinions which are expressed here are not necessarily those of The Journal.)

Captain Delbert Brunton, newly appointed California state manager, will be the big attraction at the Townsend mass meeting in the Santa Ana Townsend hall at 509 West Fourth street at 7:30 tonight to discuss the Townsend plan. The speaker is a wise connected with both the Orange and Fullerton schools for more than 10 years, he will be welcomed tonight by many of his former students as well as the Townsendites.

The national board of directors of the Townsend movement recently passed a resolution which permits all national and state officers and employees of the Townsend organization from expressing themselves, verbally or in writing, in terms of partisanship. A return to strict order to influence congressmen now in office and elect others favorable to the Townsend plan is a wise decision. The Townsend plan bill to be presented in the coming congress is a measure of social value to all the nation. It is not partisan in nature and neither should the organization be that champions its enactment.

A further resolution recently passed by the board empowers the Townsend national executive committee "to select and employ competent statisticians, actuaries, and economists to prepare suitable material on the Townsend plan for the use of congressmen and congressional committees, and to employ trained congressional contact men to attend all sessions of congress and to report back to the Townsend clubs the action of the congressmen of their respective districts." The resolution also provides for the setting up of a contact office in Washington, D. C. Now if the executive committee makes sure that the ones employed in these various capacities are continuously working for the Townsend organization who will furnish the best material, then we should get somewhere in the coming congress. Perhaps to make sure, however, that everything is on the level, there should be some other folks hired to watch the men who are to be hired to watch the congressmen.

How many of you readers know where the first national office for the Townsend plan organization was located? The first office was opened up in a room on the arby block at 100 American avenue, Long Beach. Later it was moved to 148 American avenue. From there it was taken to the Spring Arcade building in Los Angeles. Then it was moved to the Southern building in Washington D. C. During the past summer it was decided that Chicago would be the most central location.

Fullerton club No. 1 will meet in the California hotel at 7:30 tonight. According to R. C. Holmes, vice-president, the meeting will be of a social nature with card playing. A short business session will precede the social program. Mrs. Everett, president, will preside.

Orange club No. 1 met last evening in Townsend hall for a short business meeting presided over by J. A. Green, president. A box supper was enjoyed. R. Z. (Bob) Adams will speak at the next meeting on Dec. 14.

Santa Ana club No. 2 was favored last evening by an address by F. L. Carrier. Carrier has done much to build up the Townsend organization membership in Orange and Riverside counties.

R. Z. Adams was the speaker at the Biltmore theater Townsend open house meeting at noon yesterday. Tomorrow the speaker will be Mrs. Julia Sharp, John H. Weir will speak at noon Wednesday, and Mrs. Jack King of San Francisco will be featured Thursday.

The Tustin club met last evening in the social hall of the Presbyterian church to enjoy a potluck dinner in celebration of the club's second anniversary. After the dinner entertainment was provided.

WINTER SPORTS OPEN

Dig down to the bottom of your trunk and bring out that heavy sweater and pair of boots. California's winter sports season, unless the weather man absolutely refuses to cooperate, will open Saturday and continue through the middle of February—longer, of course, if there's enough snow.

Yosemite's snow frolic will begin this week-end. Big Pines recreational camp in Los Angeles county will conduct ski club competitions Jan. 9-10, with ski jumping, cross country races, skating and tobogganing. Camp Baldy, 49 miles from Los Angeles, will hold a yuletide log celebration Dec. 4-25. Lake Arrowhead's program does not get under way until February.

SPORTS COPY-WRIGHTED

George Lake, well-known Santa Ana and Huntington Beach golfer, has been appointed assistant pro at Lakewood Country club. . . . No less than five former champions will compete in Huntington Beach's eighth renewal of the Southern Counties basketball invitational Dec. 17-18-19. They are Santa Ana, Long Beach Poly, Pasadena Muir-Tech, Whittier and Chaffey. Other entries have been filed by Fullerton, Redondo Beach and Long Beach Woodrow Wilson. . . . Louie Neva, night-hall's greatest, is now a full-fledged resident of Huntington Beach. He and Mrs. Neva moved to a home on Seventh and Walnut streets last week.

Gordon Locke, the university of Iowa fullback, has held the Big Ten football scoring record for 14 years. Twelve touchdowns gave him 72 points back in 1922. The 1936 champion was Northwestern's Steve Toth with only 29 points. . . . Fans who want to see the California-Stanford "big game" virtually repaid will have the chance to see California win this year, 20-0. Next fall the same teams will go against each other. California and Stanford each lose only two or three first-stringers by graduation. And no particularly promising freshman griders are coming up.

A last night. Defeat lowered the Alliance quintet to a fourth-place tie.

Cleveland Sells George Blaeholder to Milwaukee

OTHER DEALS ON FIRE IN NEW YORK

Mickelson Takes Survey Of Supply and Demand In Major Leagues

BULLETIN
NEW YORK. (AP)—The Cleveland Indians today sold Pitcher George Blaeholder to the Milwaukee club of the American association. It was the first deal of the major league meetings. Blaeholder, who won eight and lost four for Cleveland last season, went to the Brewers as part of an agreement whereby the Indians bought Pitcher Johnny Heving from Milwaukee last fall. Blaeholder lives in Garden Grove, Calif.

By PAUL MICKELSON
NEW YORK. (AP)—Several important deals, including the much publicized transaction of the great Dizzy Dean to New York, Pittsburgh or Cincinnati, were expected to pop today as the major league moguls opened their winter meetings.

Baseball chiefs were reported ready to fire on all fronts with trades and purchases involving a score or more of major league players. The Giants went so far as to send out word there would be an announcement of a deal, but wouldn't give a hint as to what it would be.

NATIONAL LEAGUE
ST. LOUIS. (AP)—Vice President Branch Rickey is using all his salesmanship to peddle Dizzy Dean, but wants plenty of cash and a whole ball club in return. Cincinnati seems out of the running, with the Giants and Pirates running neck and neck for the great right-hander.

CHICAGO GO.—Must have more punch. Want Leiber, and would give up Third Baseman Stanley Hack, and maybe a pitcher. Insist they don't want Dean.

CINCINNATI.—Need a pitcher and an outfielder who can hit. Ready to shoot the works on their vets, but keen to hold onto the youngsters.

PITTSBURGH.—Need a catcher badly, and hot after Dean. Willing to trade almost anyone on the club to get new faces.

BROOKLYN.—Burling Grimes believes he has repaired his infield. In addition, the winning pitcher will receive $10,000. English and Cookie Lavagetto, but wants outfield strength.

PHILADELPHIA.—No meeting would be complete without a Philie deal. They need players, but they need money worse.

BOSTON.—Everyone is a bit afraid of dealing with Sherry Quinn, who has Wally Berger on the block—if he can get what he wants. That's plenty.

AMERICAN LEAGUE
NEW YORK. (AP)—No one could come close to the Yankees last season. Manager Joe McCarthy asks: "What have we got to gain with a deal?" Joe would like a pitcher but would like to buy him with cash.

DETROIT.—The Tigers need a good pitcher, and have been offered Wesley Ferrell by the Red Sox. Buck Newsome, trade pitcher and John Whitehead by the White Sox. But they all want Pitcher Eldon Auker and Outfielder Gerald Walker. Cochrane wants to peddle one of his four left fielders.

CHICAGO.—White Sox want Pitcher Jack Knott from St. Louis or Hurlers Oral Hildebrand or Thornton Lee from Cleveland. Also like Joe Vosmik of Cleveland and Bob Johnson of the Athletics. Willing to give up Infielder Tony Piet and Pitcher John Whitehead.

WASHINGTON.—After a good pitcher like Auker and a catcher like Rolfe Hemslay of the Browns or Frank Pytlak of Cleveland. Ready to trade Buck Newsome.

BOSTON.—Hot after Pinky Higgins of Philadelphia for third base in exchange for Bill Werber and cash. Also want Pitcher Wesley Ferrell for what have you.

CLEVELAND.—The Indians are eager to do some house cleaning, with Joe Vosmik leading the moving day procession. Trying to swing a deal with the Browns, Red Sox and Bill Knickerbocker as bait.

ST. LOUIS.—For some reason Rogers Hornsby is anxious to get rid of Hemsley and Harlan Clift! Wants infielders.

PHILADELPHIA.—For the first time in memory of man, Connie Mack isn't interested in money. He's ready to trade, but says he must have players, not cash, but the club owners can't believe him.

SANTA ANITA 'CAP LURES' 88 ENTRIES

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—The third annual running of the $100,000 Santa Anita handicap on Feb. 27 was virtually assured today of its largest field, numbering possibly as high as 25.

Nominations for the event went to the staggering total of 88, a new record. There were 82 entries last year, and 70 for the inaugural handicap.

Intestinal Ailment
Both Top Row and Azucar, winners of the 1936 and 1935 handicaps respectively, are among the nominees. However, Top Row was reported seriously ill at Santa Anita track from an intestinal ailment, and may not be ready for the handicap, turfdom's richest prize.

The race last year netted A. A. Barron, owner of Top Row, slightly more than $100,000. To the $100,000 net this year is already added the $800 in starting fees, $250 for each to pass the entry box and an additional $750 for each starter.

Second place horse will get $20,000, third place $10,000 and fourth place $5,000. In addition, the winning trainer will receive $10,000. The combined Milledale-A. A. Pelletier stable heads the list with six nominations—Where Away, Infantry, Tennesse, Giant Killer, Bottle Cap and Doran.

Horses that will become four year olds on Jan. 1 are in the greatest number—33.

Bold Venture Runs
Kentucky Derby and Preakness heads the three-year-olds with Mr. Bones, Indian Broom, Infantry, Seabiscuit, Gold Seeker, Red Rain, Isolator, Rushaway, Sangreal, Primulus, Delphinium and Manitou in the same class.

Leading five-year-olds in the nominees include Rosemont, Roman Soldier, Firehorn, Whopper, Where Away, Special Agent, Boxer, Star Shadow, Ariel Cross, Moonside, Tempestuous and Chanceview.

There are 15 horses that will be six-year-olds at the time of the running of the handicap. They include Top Row, Time Supply, King Sexton, Stand Pat, Agrarian, Howard, Our Count, Ann O'Riley, Jabot and Riskulus.

Weights, ranging from 100 to 130 pounds, are to be assigned Saturday night.

Flints of human workmanship have been found in the sands of the Somme river, France, at depths indicating they were dropped 400,000 years ago.

Grid Interest Now Turns To 'Bowling' in 3 Cities

NEW YORK. (AP)—Except for a couple of games next week-end and the California-Georgia Tech clash at Atlanta Dec. 26, football from now on paradoxically turns into bowling.

The interest in the 1936 gridiron campaign, which virtually ended with last Saturday's final flourish of surprises, is concentrated almost entirely on post-season "bowl" games. Washington and Pittsburgh meet in the Rose Bowl battle, oldest of the New Year's Day contests. Louisiana State and Santa Clara play in the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans, while Duquesne is slated to meet a still unselected southern opponent in the Orange Bowl at Miami.

Broncos vs. Texas Christian
All these teams except Santa Clara have concluded their regular seasons. The Broncos clash with Texas Christian in their final regular-season game next Saturday. The University of Miami, surprise conqueror of Georgetown last Friday, meets South Carolina Friday night in this week's only other game.

San Bernardino Five Downs Saints, 35-24

Basketball clubs, like Rome, have never been built in a day. Coach Reece Greene charged a 35-24 defeat from San Bernardino's Cards of the Citrus Belt league here yesterday to lack of practice, and began concentrating on Santa Ana High school's second start with Loury, Inglewood here Friday afternoon.

San Bernardino proved to be the speedier team yesterday, striking with a fast pace early in the first quarter and gathering more speed in the second half.

Santa Ana kept pace with the visitors in the first quarter, emerging with 10 points to San Bernardino's 11. Bill Milligan of the Saints and Sam Strano of the invaders each scored six points during the opening period.

Coach Greene uncovered a new prospect in Barron, an elongated transfer from Franklin High, Los Angeles. Barron, a sophomore, gets the ball off the backboard better than any of the Saints right now, and should develop into a regular. Capt. Sam Lockhart is a certain regular a guard.

Santa Ana's sophomore varsity defeated San Bernardino, 12 to 8, with Bob Clark leading the attack with six points.

Only one of last Saturday's contests, Arkansas' 6-0 victory over Texas, had any bearing on a conference race, but the others, mostly inter-sectional, provided a fitting finale for a "dizzy" football season.

Notre Dame, one of the year's most erratic teams, wound up by playing a 13-13 tie against Southern California.

Mississippi Ties Tennessee
A 76-yard run by Dick Todd featured the Texas Aggies' 13-6 triumph over Manhattan, while two poor punts by the Easterners enabled St. Mary's to defeat Temple 13-7.

The South's biggest surprise came when Mississippi held the highly regarded Tennessee volunteers to a scoreless tie. Mississippi State took a 7-0 decision over Florida. Western Maryland conquered Maryland of the Southern conference 12-0, while Texas Tech surprised by tying Arizona, 7-7. In the far west Gonzaga sprang its yearly upset by defeating Washington State, 13-7.

WASHINGTON FOURTH IN RATINGS

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP)—Minnesota's mighty football machine, under the Dickinson rating system, ranks today as the nation's No. 1 eleven. Pittsburgh and Washington—Rose bowl choices—rate third and fourth.

The Golden Gophers, even though defeated 6-0 by Northwestern, were given a rating of 23.77 points. The system was originated by Dr. Frank C. Dickinson of the University of Illinois. In second place, more than a point back, was Louisiana State university's undefeated and one-tied team.

Prof. Dickinson said Minnesota's inter-sectional victories over Washington, which will meet Pitt Jan. 1, and Nebraska, were sufficient to offset the Northwestern setback.

It was the second time since Prof. Dickinson began rating teams in 1924 that Minnesota finished at the top. The Gophers placed first in 1934.

The ratings: Minnesota, 23.77; Louisiana State, 22.59; Pittsburgh, 22.28; Washington, 21.34; Alabama, 21.01; Northwestern, 20.87; Notre Dame, 20.18; Santa Clara, 20.06; Duke, 20.04; Pennsylvania, 20.00; Nebraska, 19.82.

Prof. Dickinson said that Santa Clara, only undefeated and untied major eleven in the nation, would drop from the first 11 if it should lose to Texas Christian Saturday. Duquesne would take over 11th place and Nebraska, Pennsylvania and Duke would move up a notch apiece.

BRUIN QUINTET MAKES TOUR

The Bruins have booked exhibition games with Washington, Washington State, Oregon and Oregon State.

With good material on hand, Works plans to use a fast-breaking offense, one that characterized U. C. L. A. play in former years when talent was better than 1935.

COLEMAN AND KUDO FIGHT TO DRAW

Japanese on Verge of Winning Twice; Zim Floors Managoff

By BOB GUILD
There was a yawning gulf between the Orange County Athletic club last night who called the turn right on the nose.

"This is a swell match," he yawned after 30 minutes of the Kudo-Coleman fracas, "but ain't it ever going to end?"

Only the time-clock ended it. The mighty Nipponese mite, Kiman Kudo, and the prize of Boyles Heights, Baby Bob Coleman, writhed and struggled for 60 tortuous minutes, with the advantage going to neither.

Coleman Keeps Promise
Coleman lived up to his promise to introduce some American football methods in his match with the jiu-jitsu king, and for a few brief minutes midway in the struggle appeared to have the Japanese softened up for the "kill."

Kudo was reeling about the ring, apparently badly battered, as Coleman followed up a titanic flying tackle with a dive intended to result in a body press. Kudo had one more wriggle, however, and scrambled away in time to avert disaster.

Kimman also was trembling on the verge of victory at least once or twice. Taking a page from Chief Little Wolf's book, he slipped on an Indian death grip, only to lose it when the agile Coleman performed a double pretzel back-flip and flop-over to gain his freedom and make a free getaway.

Brick Dust

Here and There With The Journal's
Rambling County Editor
By T. N. (BRICK) GAINES

NEARLY all of Huntington Beach and a good portion of the rest of the county donned Sunday clothes last night to celebrate another year for the chamber of commerce there. They weren't celebrating because President Del Burry was finishing his year as president, either. He was a good one!

Accomplishments of the past year were many, according to Secretary Bill Gallienne's report. Everything from twin conventions to baby parades, and from building fly-casting pools to decorating Christmas trees came under the head of chamber of commerce activities.

The only thing that's puzzling me is how they find time to look after their individual businesses?

At last night's meeting I sensed another feud like the one enjoyed by Mayor A. C. Boice and Councilman Cal Lester at Orange. You will remember that Councilman Cal and Mayor Boice trade complimentary kicks in the shins at every opportunity.

This friendly battle seems to go on incessantly between A. W. Post and Vic Terry. Thus far, it seems, activities have only reached the stage of remarks—handclappings when they most embarrass each other, and such things.

I'm looking for a shin-kicking spree at any time!

Publisher Jim Farquhar was there, minus Jackrabbits Giganticus, although M. M. McCall, the proud owner—or should I say manufacturer—of the huge mythical specimen which so startled readers of the Huntington Beach News also attended.

Guess they figured there wasn't room in the meeting hall for the animal, which at one time, according to stories, threatened to create a carrot shortage in the community. When the story started, Jackrabbits weighed 186 pounds. I hesitate to estimate the weight he's probably reached by now!

My good friend, Jim Farquhar, who spends his time publishing the Huntington Beach News—when he isn't hunting a new specimen of Jackrabbits Giganticus—honors Mayor John Thomas Africa in his latest edition.

Right smack on Page 1, where everyone can see it, is a photo of the Africa person, and a very lovely story telling why the Yuletide edition is dedicated to him. Jim virtually goes into spasms regarding John T.—he's a community booster and loves his fellowman, and all that stuff.

And he doesn't even mention the Africa socks, which are why I'd dedicate a Christmas edition to him, if I had a paper which had a Christmas edition. If you see what I mean.

To all intents and purposes a sane and sensible guy, John Thomas has a terrible weakness for highly colored footwear. Every time I see him, which isn't often, he's wearing a more noticeable pair of gaudy footgear.

Major Africa doesn't need to worry, however. Some day I'll have a paper, maybe, and then I'll dedicate MY Christmas edition to his socks, or know the reason why!

Bulletin: I wrote the above yesterday. Since that time, I encountered Prof. Africa, who refrained from any physical attack, but who disagreed with certain remarks concerning his wearing apparel.

"I've quit wearing loud socks," he protested, exhibiting a pair which made me burn with envy. "Take these, for instance!"

Those socks, although not up to the usual Africa standard, were, in the parlance of the street, honest. Very conservative, I'll admit, with only half-inch stripes of red and blue, but they stood out fairly well even at a chamber of commerce dinner!

Incidentally, Huntington Beach has served warning that a determined battle will be waged this year to regain sweepstakes prizes habitually won each year in the Coast association's Christmas lighting program. Already, very wonderful street decorations are in evidence. Beautiful trees on about every lamp post in town. Nice lights, too.

Other coast towns had better get busy!

SUCCESSFUL YEAR CELEBRATED BY HUNTINGTON CHAMBER

REED SPEAKS AT ANNUAL MEETING

Burry Completes Year as Booster Body Head;
Reports Heard

HUNTINGTON BEACH.—Marking completion of a year of accomplishments under leadership of President D. E. Burry and Secretary W. H. Gallienne, members of the Huntington Beach Chamber of Commerce last night joined for the annual dinner meeting and report of the organization.

Featuring the session was President Burry's report of the year's program, and a talk by Leonard E. Reed, western manager of the United States Chamber of Commerce.

Program Told
Sponsorship of several large community projects, and active participation in civic undertakings, such as participation in the Orange County Coast association's annual Christmas lighting program, were pointed out in the annual report. The chamber backed a drive for a new $50,000 recreation hall on the beach, upon which work is expected to start within a short time, President Burry said.

The chamber also backed plans for a fly-casting pool in Lake park, he added, and actual construction of that unit is expected to be started within a few days. The booster body also backed the greatest Fourth of July celebration in the history of Huntington Beach, and was active in a fight to obtain a fishing preserve for the Orange county coastline.

Reed Speaks
Economic trends and their effect upon government were explained by Reed, who recently completed a study of the subject over the entire nation.

"If unrest among workers continues to grow and they become politically powerful it is conceivable that we may have a new form of living in this country," Reed said. "Eventually, we may have a new form of government, as they have today in some European countries."

The problem of workers today is "excessive desires" for things they do not have, Reed explained, and this problem is aggravated by the radio and motion pictures. These two mediums, however, may prove to be blessings in disguise, he added, as they will "bring to a crisis stage a lingering economic illness."

Tells Solution
Present trends are taking the country deeper and deeper into the morass, he contended, and gave as his solution to the economic problem and resultant prosperity a "combination of the ability to reduce costs and free play of forces which compel an exercise of that ability."

Costs of government have risen from 5 cents per income dollar in 1890 to 35 cents per income dollar in 1935, he said. Governments have permitted and incurred overhead out of proportion to income, he added, pointing out that although such tactics would call for failure of private business, government still survives by appearing the cost among many private enterprises.

Attacks Legislation
Reed attacked a proposed 30-hour week bill, which he said, will be brought before congress again this year. He explained that the proposed plan, instead of being of benefit to workers, would hurt them through resultant rise of 35 per cent in prices.

Concluding the meeting, President Burry made a farewell speech, thanking members and city officials for cooperation during the past year. Officials introduced during the evening were Mayor Willis Warner, Councilmen A. W. Morehouse and Lee Chamness, Dr. C. G. Huston, president of the Associated Chamber of Commerce, Harry Welch, secretary of the Newport Harbor chamber, and K. P. Frederick, Long Beach Press-Telegram. Music was furnished by the Golden State Saxophone quintet.

START BATTLE OVER BEACH CITY HALL

NEWPORT-BALBOA.—Interest in the proposed new city hall to take the place of the 40-year old former schoolhouse building now being used was increased by new petitions filed with the city council at a meeting last night.

Petition opinion, it was shown, is divided as to where the new structure, and the consequent new civic center, should be located. Many citizens signed to retain the present location. Others declared themselves to be in favor of a more central site, such as, Ralph Maskey said, four acres, partially owned by the city, at the entrance of Lido Isle. The council tabled the new petition.

BOAT RACES AT PORT SOUGHT

NEWPORT-BALBOA.—Inboard speed boat racing of an international flavor as an annual event on Newport bay was seen today as result of the tentative approval of a 1937 season by the city council last night, on a plea of a racing boat delegation.

Robert L. Reed, commodore of the L. A. Speedboat association, inboard division; Walter Olsen, vice-chairman of the American Powerboat association; J. L. Munson, chairman of the 225's division, and father of Dorothy Munson, speedboat queen of the West, and George Riley, member of the L. A. S. A., appeared before the council.

Indoor motorboats were not the only kind, they declared, in behalf of their craft. They called attention to the Pacific Coast "gold cup" championship races held on Newport bay a month ago as a good example of the series that would be staged here during the 1937 season.

Tentative approval of the city council was based on the provision that all racing dates be outside the summer season, June 15 to Sept. 15. The boat committee agreed to return with a definite schedule avoiding that peak period of the year.

Board members present were Post Commander James Casto, Mrs. Louise Osmun, auxiliary president; Mr. and Mrs. George Bickford, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Hodson, Mr. and Mrs. David Fairbairn, Mrs. Charlotte Adams, Mrs. E. C. Frevert, Mrs. Celia Bryant, Mrs. Ollie Kurtz, Mrs. Rachel Powell, Edwin Wescott and Ewald Wegner.

As the result of 2362 people in Coventry, England, authorizing their banks to pay the odd shillings in their accounts to the King George V national memorial fund, $5115 was realized.

'DEPRESSHUN' CHRISTMAS LETTER IS WINNER

Merry Christmas, kids! Here's another winner in The Journal-KVOE Christmas letter contest.

Uncle Bob is giving tonight's prize to Arlene Dreblow of Santa Ana, five years old and a wise little girl. She had her brother do her writing for her, she said, because she can't write much.

"I sure like Christmas, 'cause I go to see Santa and the pretty trees. I go to church and the teacher tells about the child Jesus born on Christmas day, and the Wise Men brought presents. That's why we give presents, to make children happy. He brot me a pretty dolly one Christmas, but I don't know what he'll bring me this Christmas 'cause it's depresshun and he hasn't much money. Wish I could give him some for Christmas, maybe he would bring me a nice present, too."

That's just the way Arlene's brother wrote it, and even if Arlene can't spell "depresshun," it's plain to see she knows what it means. But because Christmas is still the happiest time of the year to her she says a $1 savings account in the First National bank for her letter saying so.

Be sure to tune in on KVOE tonight at 15 minutes to 6 to hear some of the winners of honorable mention in this fine contest.

Remember, the rules are easy—write 200 words on "Why I like Christmas." If you're under 12 you're eligible to enter.

You can mail your letter to Uncle Bob at The Journal or at KVOE, or you can drop them in the Christmas letter boxes, at The Journal, The First National Bank, or the downtown offices of KVOE in the Moore building, 315 North Broadway. Write me a letter!

Tune in this afternoon on Uncle Bob, over KVOE at 15 minutes to 6 for another adventure of Dot and Dan in Santaland, another chapter of Santa Claus in Viking land, and another Christmas story.

CHAPTER X
"Very well, Mr. Bosdick," said Susan. "You can see my lawyer, Mr. Peaslee, about it."

"No need of a lawyer—cost you money," Bosdick objected.

"I want my lawyer—I want it all aboveboard. He has told me that the swamp isn't worth anything, but if you still want to sort of square things and give me the farm, you know what you are doing."

"All right—all right," Bosdick left the hotel, elated. He was going to make a big fortune! All it would cost him would be the Morrison farm that he had got by sheer trickery.

Susan went to Mrs. Ames and told her that she was going to get the farm for the swamp.

"But, dearie—that's foolish. That potery clay is worth a dozen or a hundred farms," Mrs. Ames protested.

Then, Susan told her the entire story.

"Well, for pity sakes! Serves him right. But trust me never to say a word!"

"I never had a talk with my uncle's housekeeper," said Susan. "I heard today that she is back in town. Do you know her?"

"Of course I know Mrs. Tucker! I'll telephone her to come over!"

A little later, over some tea and refreshments in Mrs. Ames' office, Susan, Mrs. Ames and Mrs. Tucker got together.

"So you're the girl who got cheated?" Mrs. Tucker said.

"That can you prove it?" Susan asked.

"That's just it. I can't prove a thing. I do know just before he died, old Mr. Morrison sent for Eben Bosdick to make him a final payment on a piece of land he had bought before he was taken sick. Mr. Bosdick came over and got his check."

"Then, to my surprise, Mr. Bosdick came back again the next day, with a leather briefcase. Poor Mr. Morrison was dreadful sick by then, but, after a while, Mr. Bosdick came out and asked me and my son to come in and witness his and Mr. Morrison's signatures on some papers."

"Didn't he say what the papers were?" Mrs. Ames asked.

"No. I went and called my boy out of the field. I'll ask Mr. Morrison what the papers were."

"What did he say?" Susan asked breathlessly.

CROCKERY GIRL

By LEWIS ALLEN BROWNE

"He was so sick that he just sort of motioned to Bosdick to explain. Bosdick said, 'Young man, when you get as old and sick as my good friend here, you will want to get your house in order. These papers are just to give proof that Mr. Morrison is all square and doesn't owe anybody a cent.' Then, my son and I saw Mr. Bosdick sort of guide Mr. Morrison's hand to sign, saw Mr. Bosdick sign, and then we signed on the lines where he said."

"But didn't you see that it was a transfer of property?" Mrs. Ames cried.

"I'd never seen any property papers. I wouldn't know what they look like, and anyway, Mr. Bosdick sort of held the paper for us so we couldn't see much. I never could understand then law papers anyway."

Susan nodded grimly. "I can understand. It wasn't your fault. What happened then?"

"Mr. Bosdick shook hands with poor Mr. Morrison and left. Mr. Morrison died three days later. And when I learned, after the funeral, that old Mr. Morrison had swapped his lovely farm for that awful swamp land, I could have fainted. But what could I do? I couldn't prove anything."

When Mrs. Tucker had gone, Mrs. Ames said:

"Susan—that's an awful smart young man of yours. Imagine you getting that farm back so easy, with a trick like that!"

"Do you blame me?"

"Certainly not, Susan. It's only fit to let Bosdick just about boil over with rage when he learns that the clay in his old swamp couldn't make so much as an old flower pot!"

"I expect that he will threaten me, but Mr. Peaslee says he can't do a thing because I assured him the swamp was worthless."

"Good for you!"

Susan didn't know now where to reach Chet, or she would have wired him that Bosdick was going to swap back the farm. She did send an air-mail letter to the Stithwick office, however, to be forwarded.

She went to bed happy that night. Chet had been brought up on a farm. They could be married now and Chet could run the farm and make a good living. Her great ambition of owning a nice home in the country was about to be fulfilled.

There was a surprise awaiting Susan the next morning—a night letter from John Stithwick! It read:

Hadley told me of porcelain clay property Stop Make no deals through him stop Has had no experience Stop Will mess things up and make you lose thousands Stop Wait until I can come on and handle it for you Stop We can be married there.

Susan stared at this and then began to laugh. To get even with Mr. Stithwick, Chet had probably kidded him into the belief that she really owned valuable property.

She saved the telegram but did no bother to answer it. It would give Chet a big laugh when he saw it.

The appointed time for making the transfer, in Lawyer Peaslee's office, of the Morrison farm and the swamp land was noon. Susan was there exactly on time, happy in the belief that, within a few minutes, the farm would be hers, as it should have been when her uncle died. Bosdick had not yet appeared.

"He is probably delayed by some chance to get 11 pennies out of a dime," Peaslee said, with a chuckle.

Susan told him what Mrs. Tucker had told her.

"Yes, she told me the same thing," he said. "It was as crooked as a ram's horn, but what proof have we?"

"Well, it doesn't matter now, Mr. Peaslee."

"It's a long lane, my dear, that has no—"

Eben Bosdick came in just then. "Ah, good morning, Eben. A trifle late, but it doesn't matter. Let's get down to business," Peaslee said.

"There ain't going to be no business!" snapped Bosdick. "If you think you can cheat Eben Bosdick, you're crazy! That swamp land ain't worth a cent an acre and never was and never will be, and try and get my farm away from me—just try it—you would-be swindlers!"

LECTURE IS GIVEN HERE ON CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

According to Professor Hermann S. Hering, a member of the Board of Lectureship of the Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass., the great need has always been to understand Truth so that a right concept of existence might thereby be obtained.

He declared in a lecture last night at First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Santa Ana, that Christian Science is a disclosure of spiritual Truth and its human application; that it is not an invention, a formulated theory, nor a system humanly devised. The discovery of Christian Science, he stated, was made by Mary Baker Eddy, whose quality of mind made it possible for Truth to be perceived by her, and she presented this revelation of Truth to the world, in her textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures."

Professor Hering went on to explain that while Truth has always existed, it has not been fully known nor understood, and its practice as a healing and redemption agency has not been generally believed in nor employed. Truth back of Bible statements had not previously been fully grasped because it was not discerned. Bible language had not been deciphered because it was not spiritually understood, he pointed out, therefore, that which is not spiritual application until its philosophy and Science were revealed through Christian Science.

Philosophers Deceived
Professor Hering had chosen for the subject of his lecture, "The Philosophy and Practice of Christian Science." He pointed out that philosophers, while seeking Truth and attempting to state it, have been deceived by physical existence, believing it to be actual and real; they have been unable to see the unreality of material existence, because they had nothing to put in its place. Now that the infinite Truth has been discovered by Mrs. Eddy, he affirmed, that which is real, that is, spiritual and everlasting, can be known, and consequently, the unreality, the inexistence of that which is not spiritual and everlasting, can be recognized. The lecturer explained that the philosophy of Christian Science involves the teaching that since reality is spiritual and infinite, all that is material and finite is unreal; it shows that evil, being finite, is not real for it is but a belief in the absence of good, therefore, a negative condition.

Corrects Errors
The practice of Christian Science, Professor Hering declared, involves clear, spiritual consciousness of divine Truth, the real God, of the real man, and the real universe. This practice, he pointed out, requires the clear recognition of the unreality of God's opposite, matter and its products, materiality, sickness, sin, disaster, death. It recognizes all discordant conditions as errors, as falsities, as mistakes, and corrects them with divine Truth. This healing power, he went on to explain, is applied through the right knowing of the Christ, the spiritual idea of the healing Principle, divine Love, as originally demonstrated by Jesus, and now made possible through the teachings of Mrs. Eddy.

Professor Hering assured his listeners that through knowing and applying the teachings of Jesus, as understood in Christian Science, freedom from evil influences of the world can be achieved, healing and redemption can be obtained, and that this actual Comforter will bring unspeakable comfort and full regeneration to humanity.

FRED STONE IN RED CROSS GOAL STATE FILM IS IN SIGHT

With Fred Stone in the starring role, "Grand Jury" tops the bill that opens tonight at the State theater. The second feature on the bill is "The Longest Night," while also on the program are "College Dads," a two-reel musical comedy featuring Leon Janney and a travelogue, "Seeing Eye."

"Grand Jury" lays the blame for the power of racketeers directly on the doorstep of the taxpayer, and dramatically tells what he'll have to do about it.

With Fred Stone in the cast are Louise Latimer, Owen Davis, Jr., and Meroni Olsen.

Robert Young and Florence Rice are co-stars in "The Longest Night," the action of which takes place on the seven floors of a large department store. Others in the cast are Ted Healy, Julie Haydon and Catherine Doucet.

Approve New Job For Rasmussen

Santa Ana has a brand new building inspector today.

He is Harold O. Rasmussen, formally appointed last night by the city council to succeed Sam I. Preble, who resigned as of Dec. 1 to enter private business after nine years of service to the city.

The city council last night offi-

Last year's membership of 2146 in the American Red Cross chapter of Santa Ana has already been exceeded by several hundred, it was announced by Donald Jerome, chairman of the Roll Call membership campaign, at a meeting of the board of directors and executive committee last Friday.

According to his report, the goal of 3750 memberships will be attained if a final energetic push is given by every worker who has not checked in.

Harry Edwards, chairman of first aid, presented the applications of William Walter of Laguna Beach, James F. McWilliams and Jules Renier of Santa Ana, for reappointment as first aid instructors.

The chapter recommended them to the national organization along with William Walter, George Bronner and Miss Margaret Glenn as life-saving examiners.

cially accepted Preble's resignation, with regrets. Preble was present at the session.

STREET IN FRONT YARDS Metzgars Get Mixup Fixed

Stamp Dealers Do Rush Business On Royal Issue

NEW YORK. (P)—Postage stamp dealers and speculators are rushing orders to London for supplies of the King Edward British stamps issued in September.

If the king leaves the throne, the stamps will become obsolete in a short time, causing a sharp rise in their value to collectors.

M. Sage, manager of the Broadway Stamp Company, said that if the stamps are withdrawn, cancelled copies eventually will be worth as much as unused copies. Obtainable at face value in London, the stamps bear a profile of King Edward against a plain background. Some Brits protested the new issue when it appeared, contending the design was unconventional.

TWO DIE IN FIRE

CANNELTON, Ind. (P)—Mrs. Dorthea Lehman, 38, and her son, William, 14, were burned to death and three other members of the family were burned seriously when their log cabin summer residence was destroyed by fire yesterday.

The Metzgars of Baker street don't want the city to use their front yard for a street. And they can hardly be blamed.

That's why a mixup which occurred back in 1930 was straightened out by the city council last night, with the aid of City Attorney Lew W. Blodgett.

In 1930, it seems, the city was planning on making a 60-foot street out of Baker street, then a 36-foot street. So the city secured 12 feet more from property owners on each side of the street.

In a strange error, an extra 12 feet of the property on the west side of Baker between Tenth and Washington streets was decided to the city—more than was wanted or needed. In the meantime the property owners planted lawns, shrubs and flowers on this 12-foot strip and it became their front yards.

The J. C. Metzgars didn't like this arrangement, so now they want their front yards back. The extra 12 feet of land which was taken in error by the city was ordered returned to the Metzgars, who own five lots on this street.

The three who suffered burns were the father, William C. Lehman, sr., 40, manufacturer of Cannellton, and two daughters, Dorthea, 16, and Virginia, 15.

NEW YORK. (P)—A tale of torture with lighted matches, razor strap and burning cigar stubs put Alfred Mansfield, round-faced 200-pound auto wrecker, in jail today, to await grand jury action on a charge of assaulting his 98-pound wife, Ruth.

Police Detective Bert Bedell, of Baldwin, L. I., said Mansfield admitted thrusting lighted matches beneath his wife's finger-nails and beating her.

Bedell quoted Mrs. Mansfield as saying her husband accused her unjustly of indiscretions with other men.

Bedell found the woman limping near her North Baldwin home on Sunday, a few hours after Mansfield reported her as missing. She had fled from the house Friday night, she told the detective, after her fingers and feet had been burned and she had been forced to stand with heavy books on her outstretched hands, while her husband stood by, flailing her with a razor strap at the slightest relaxation of her tense posture.

BESSIE LOVE DIVORCED
LOS ANGELES. (P)—Testimony of Bessie Love, star of the silent screen, that her husband told her he no longer loved her, won her a divorce yesterday from William Hawks, artists' agent.

PREDICT CHRISTMAS SALES TO BE THRD HIGHER THAN LAST YEAR

ARE PACKED
BY BUYERS

Merchants Report More Expensive Gifts Are Being Purchased

"Jingle bells, jingle bells, jingle all the way . . ."

That's the happy refrain Santa Ana merchants will be humming from now until Christmas time, eyes cocked on the crowds of customers and ears listening to the jubilant jangle of the cash register, which will ring out its merry message with greater gusto and frequency this year than in many a bygone year.

Santa Ana merchants today estimated conservatively that this season's Christmas business will be around 35 per cent greater than last year, and with every chance that all-time records will be smashed.

Gifts for Family

As in years gone by, it is evident that a large share of the money to be spent for Christmas gifts this year will go to buy new clothes for mama, papa and all the kiddies. Clothing merchants anticipate the biggest Christmas business in their store's history. Who will have the edge in new finery was difficult to determine.

Clothing stores reported that the trend this year seems to be toward the purchase of larger and more expensive articles than in other years. In other words, dad is more likely to get a smoking jacket than a tie, although he'll probably have plenty of neckwear.

Furniture, Too

Christmas buying already has started in many branches of business, most noticeably in the clothing business. Home furnishings will be another big item in the Christmas gift column. Furniture dealers reported an active holiday business, already well under way.
Christmas, of course, is more for the youngsters than for the oldersters, and a large part of the family Christmas budget will go for all the things that gladden the hearts of boys and girls at Yuletide.

Department store heads also reported the Christmas buying season to be well under way. The manager of one large department store said that Christmas business already is "swell," and he expects it to be even better as Christmas draws nearer.

Starting Early

Stationery and gift stores are enjoying the early Christmas business. Many merchants reported that this year the Christmas buying has started a little earlier than usual, and obviously stronger.
Business men said the average business this year already is running at least 15 per cent ahead of last year, and that the Chris-mas business would at least double the average increase.

So while the Christmas bells will ring merrily for everyone at Christmas time, they already have started pealing forth sweet notes for Santa Ana merchants, who are better equipped than ever this year to fill the every need of Christmas shoppers in the large Santa Ana trading area.

Santa and the Viking

BY SIGRID ARNE

He took off his silver helmet and bowed.

The story so far: The North wind has blown a sailing ship, carrying a lone sailor, to Santa's toyland. Santa is surprised and puzzled.

CHAPTER TWO

The Sailor's Story

The eyes of rosy-cheeked Santa and of chubby Mrs. Santa nearly popped out of their heads as they watched their strange visitor, the sailor, approach them.

You remember, the North Wind had sent a visitor in a sailing ship to Santa's toyland.

As the sailor walked toward Santa, he took off his beautiful, silver helmet and bowed, his long,
yellow hair blowing in the wind.
But as he straightened up and looked at Santa he looked rather startling because big tears were rolling down his cheeks into his yellow beard. He asked, "Is my daughter here?"

"My gracious," said Santa, taking the man by his arm, "come in, come in. Your daughter isn't here, but we might help you find her."

Dolls Jumped to Their Feet

So Santa and the stranger and Mrs. Santa entered the large toy-shop and went to the roaring fire in the fireplace to warm their hands. Hundreds of dolls jumped to their feet on the topshelves to look, and one elf was so curious that he fell to the floor and straight through a toy drum.

"Poor man, where have you come from?" said Mrs. Santa, tugging nervously at her white apron.
The man sank onto a bench by the fire and told his story:

"Three hundred years ago I was a proud lord with a castle at the northernmost tip of Norway. My name is Nils. My castle was great and my ships were many and strong. I sailed away each spring, and only came back when ice was locking the harbor. I had a beautiful wife, Margreta, and a little golden-haired daughter, Gudrun.

"But one spring the sweet Mar-greta was ill, and she begged me to stay. In the harbor, though, the wind was billowing the sails of my ships, and I went. When I returned with soft silks and good red wines from the South, Margreta was dead and my little Gudrun had wandered off through the fiords to find me. No one has seen her since.

"Long ago I should have gone to Valhalla, the heaven of the Vikings, but the gods have granted me extra time on earth to find my daughter. Through the years all my sailors have died, and I am as good as dead. I'm tired and I'm lonesome." He ended his story and wept into his great, white hands.

Adopt New Model
Building Code

The city council last night provided buildings with the last word in building ordinances.

First reading to a new ordinance which tosses away the outmoded 1930 building regulations and brings on the comparatively new 1935 regulations, was given by the council.

Presented by City Attorney Lew Blodgett, the new ordinance outlaws the 1930 building code and adopts instead the 1935 code, the latest available. Amendments to the old ordinance will be retained.

RED SCALE GROWTH

Control Measures Are Outlined by Citrus Organization

Citrus growers today find themselves with heavy infestations of red scale in a season in which weather conditions may be expected to interfere with control operations, according to the monthly pest control circular of the California Fruit Growers exchange.

Weather during November led to a tremendous hatch of red scale, which added to the growth of scale in summer and fall has created a condition requiring much control work on both oranges and lemons, the bulletin said.

In the coastal area, it was recommended, fumigators should make test shots and as soon as trees and fruit will stand 20 or 22 cubic centimeters dosage, should push the work rapidly.

Fumigation on nights when the temperature drops below freezing is likely to damage fruit, even when done several hours before arrival of freezing temperatures, it was warned.

In addition to frost warning broadcasts by Floyd D. Young, government meteorologist, daily from KNX at 8 p. m., H. A. Rathbone, La Habra, will have temperature data for Orange county points, sometimes in late afternoon, it was announced.

Charge Federal Projects Expensive

Declaring that projects carried out under the Public Works administration and Resettlement administration cost a great deal more than had such projects been accomplished through private enterprise, a communication from the National Association of Real Estate boards was being considered today by members of the Santa Ana Realty board.

The letter from the national organization, received here by Earl B. Hawks, board secretary, decried the federal policy of allowing housing projects to interfere with private enterprise. It was said that projects undertaken directly by the government tend to antagonize local communities instead of enlisting their co-operation. It was recommended that direct federal housing projects be discontinued and that those already built or launched be turned over to local limited dividend associations or to private enterprise as soon as possible.

Government Jobs Are Announced

Open competition examinations for four government jobs were announced today by the United States civil service commission.

cal officer, female (psychiatry), $4600 a year; junior medical officer (interne), $2000 a year; junior medical officer (psychiatric resident), $2000 a year, St. Elizabeth's hospital, Washington, D. C.
Biologist (wild silks management), service, department of agriculture.

tained from Frank Cannon at the

DENY REQUEST FOR RETURN OF BADGE

Lockhart Tells Council
He Refused Graft and Wants Job Back

He might have accepted a little graft, but he didn't and he wants his job back.

That's what F. W. Lockhart, erstwhile merchant patrolman who was involved in a dispute and physical encounter with another merchant patrolman, Bert Dawson, told the city dads last night.
This was after he had heard Mayor Fred C. Rowland accept a motion from Police Commissioner Plummer Bruns that the special police badges of both patrolmen be suspended. The council suspended the badges on recommendation of Police Chief Floyd W.
Howard.

Lockhart claimed that his rights had been infringed upon; that he has done many things which would be a credit to any man; that he has made arrests which put money in city coffers—all while he was drawing no pay from the city.

He said he had had trouble with Dawson for a year and a half before an encounter one night not long ago in a cafe, after which Lockhart signed a battery complaint against Dawson.

"He's jealous of me," Lockhart said.

He pleaded with the council to restore his coveted badge, but finally Mayor Rowland stopped him, and suggested that Lockhart "talk it over" sometime again with the council.

2-WAY RADIO
AIDS ARREST

Convenience of two-way radio communication for sheriff's cars was demonstrated Saturday when three officers arrested a motorist on drunken driving charges.

An experimental sending set had been installed in one of the patrol cars, in which Deputy Sheriffs H.
P. Dunbar, Fred Hinton, and James Workman were patrolling the coast area.

They arrested E. L. Huey, Wilmington, and called the sheriff's office via radio as they started in.
When they arrived here, a doctor was waiting to make a medical examination. Huey was pronounced moderately intoxicated and locked in a cell within half an hour after the arrest.

SANTA ANA CHAMBER GETS BEHIND FISH PRESERVE

A resolution urging the state legislature to take appropriate action to protest Orange county's game fish was adopted yesterday by directors of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce.

It was pointed out that the state legislature will make efforts to repeal the legislation which created a fish preserve in Orange county waters to restrict the taking of sardines for reduction plants. Sardines are attractive to game fish.

graph contest, designed to secure attractive pictures of the county which could be used in publicity work, were discussed at the directors' meeting yesterday. Fifty dollars in cash prizes will be awarded.
The contest will be county-wide,
and all amateur photographers will be urged to enter pictures.
The committee in charge of the contest includes Oliver Linde-meyer, Ivie Stein and Mrs. Emma
B. McClellan.

Congress' Neophytes Must Learn Bells if They Don't Want to Miss Roll Calls

(Editor's Note: On Jan. 5 a new congress, the 75th, convenes. Of the 435 representatives and 96 senators, 110 will be newcomers to their legislative halls. Their governmental problems were discussed during the campaign and will be heard throughout the session. Less has been said of complexities facing them as individuals in the national capital. Eddy Gilmore takes a look at the Washington scene from the human side in this first of a series of six congressional primer articles.)

By EDDIE GILMORE

WASHINGTON. (AP)—Book stores of the nation sell no road maps for the political detours on Capitol Hill.

Lying ahead of the 110 new senators and representatives like a motorist's nightmare are those inevitable hazards of the early road to statecraft:

Legislative bogs.

Quagmires of precedent.

Stop signs of seniority.

There are a dozen minor distractions to plague the suffering mind of the freshman lawmaker—even after doorkeepers learn to know and admit him.

Mysterious bells clang through the corridors of the Capitol as if a hundred opposite party pixies were turning in false fire alarms.

The neophyte who stuffs cotton in his aching ears will live to learn he has missed a trio of roll calls and three opportunities to get his name in the Congressional Record.

For his sake these bugle calls of the house are listed:

1. A teller vote.

2. Yea and nay roll-call vote.

3. Call of the house, no quorum.

4. Adjournment.

5. Recess.

The senate system is even a more confusing, and the 15 new legislators must tune their ears to these silence blasters:

1. Yeas and nays.

2. Call of the senate.

3. Open executive session.

4. Adjournment.

5. Legislative session after the executive session.

6. Recess.

7. Closed doors.

Granted the new senator masters them, more numerals beset him, for he must remember to punch the elevator with the common people.

Favor Apartments
But no Business
On Broadway Area

Apartment houses but no business buildings.

This was the edict expressed by the city council last night when it considered a plea of property owners on Broadway between Seventeenth and Nineteenth streets to rezone their property.

The property owners asked that land now zoned for business be zoned for apartment houses and business buildings. The council handed the problem to the planning commission, which recommended denial of the petition, but indicated it might favor apartment houses.

Councilmen discussed zoning on Broadway, and suggested that it might be in order to make a complete study of Broadway from Santa Clara to the southern city limits and secure a report on future zoning plans.

Court Upholds
Ritter Removal

WASHINGTON. (AP)—The sen-

Ritter from office as federal dis-

Denying Ritter's motion to call court gave its independent decision, which was taken here as a step in CITRUS SALES

HIGH DURING LEAN YEARS

E. J. Smale Shows How Cooperative Units
Aid Growers

How the operations of cooperative marketing organizations have benefitted the orange industry and growers was outlined today in an article by E. J. Smale, manager of the Garden Grove Mutual Orange Distributors house.

Smale pointed out that the price for oranges received by growers during depression years was not so much lower than that received during good times, although the industry was able to increase by 63 per cent on average yearly shipments during years of depression.

Average yearly shipments from 1909 to 1928, inclusive, amounted to 39,377 cars per year in California, selling at an average delivered price of $3.70 per box. Smale reported, "This shows," he said, "the average shipments per year during the years of depression to be 24,994 cars a year more than the average of the years from 1909 to 1928, inclusive. This is an average increase in shipments of 63.4-10 per cent, with a decrease in price of 35 cents a box on delivered price."

Discussing the operation of government legislation in control measures, smale said: "We may, or may not say this is democracy or we may say it is a restriction on our personal liberty, but we must realize that personal liberty in its strictest sense went out of existence years ago. We have not yet reached that point where we are willing to turn over the regulation of the work to the workers, if I interpret the anti-picketing law right that has just been written in Orange county."

Eastern Star Officers Escorted to Stations in Brilliant Ceremonials

Twenty-Eight Installed As Heads

Elizabeth Lewis and H. Nelson to Head Hermosa Chapter

Brilliant ceremonies last night in the Masonic temple marked the 47th installation of officers by Hermosa Eastern Star chapter, in which Mrs. Elizabeth Lewis was installed as worthy matron and Harold E. Nelson as worthy patron for the coming year.

Beauty of ritual, combined with the lovely setting, made this year's ceremonial one long to be remembered by the several hundred members who gathered in the temple.

Receiving the guests upon their arrival was a committee of chapter members, including the junior past matron, Mrs. Vera Jacoby, Mrs. Marion Wallace, Mrs. Jeanette Tarpley and Mrs. Lois Ostermann.

Everett Matzer, Bert West and J. A. Tarpley acted as ushers. The ceremonies were officially opened by Miss Beth Hill, who brought in the Bible and placed it in its position in the room.

Master of Ceremonies, Will McConnell, master of ceremonies, introduced the first treasurer of Hermosa chapter, Mrs. Martha Medlock, who was among those present last night, and then presented Mildred Taylor, installing marshal, and Bessie Meyers, installing chaplain. Mrs. Taylor was in black and white, and Mrs. Meyers in red velvet.

Harriet Nelson, as wife of the incoming worthy patron, also assisted in the installing, wearing a gown of pearly slipper satin. Mayme Y. Havens was the installing officer.

Three grand officers were introduced in the course of the ceremonies and escorted into the room. These were Helen Edwards of Fullerton, grand associate conductor; Lillian Edwards of Orange, district deputy grand matron, and Hattie Runyan, grand associate matron of Nevada.

Miss Henrietta Bohling, who, as retiring worthy matron, presided over the opening ceremonies, wore a lovely green chiffon dress and carried pink roses. Mrs. Lewis, in pink cut velvet, carried pink roses, and Mrs. Nelson, in black and white, carried pink roses and wearing also an orchid corsage.

The officers who were being installed, all in lovely formal dresses, carried large bouquets of yellow and white chrysanthemums. Mrs. Lewis, in pink cut velvet, carried pink roses, and Mrs. Nelson, in black and white, carried pink roses and wearing also an orchid corsage.

Musical Interlude During intervals between the escorting to stations, Mrs. Gladys Hendricks sang a lovely solo, accompanied by Mabel Carpenter, and Kenneth and Clarence Rohrs sang duets, with accompaniment by Genevieve Thompson.

Lights were dimmed except on the altar and in the star when the star points were installed. Pearl Hyde acting as an angel in these ceremonies for which the five officers knelt at the altar. Pearl Livesey sang "In the Garden" softly while the rituals were being conducted.

RELATIVES COME FOR BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION

Members of Mrs. John Aiken's family gathered at the Aiken home, 1155 West Eighth street, Saturday evening for a happy celebration of their hostess' birthday, which was Sunday.

Gathering for the birthday dinner and evening both were the Aikens' daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lochee, and their son, Jackie, a niece and family, Mr. and Mrs. William Bradley and Mona Marie, all of Riverside, and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Scott, brother and sister-in-law, of Pasadena.

Others from Pasadena joined them later for an informal evening and a second birthday cake, the group bringing the refreshments for the party. These guests included Mrs. H. D. Smith and daughter, Isola; Mr. and Mrs. O. Scott; Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Scott and sons, Robert and William; Mr. and Mrs. G. Sam Scott; Mr. and Mrs. George Brown and three children, Scott, David and Prudence, and Rupert West.

PENNS RETURN FROM THE EAST

Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Penn of 511 West Chestnut street and the latter's sister, Mrs. M. S. Hanley of Alhambra, returned home Saturday from a three-month automobile trip, during which they visited relatives in Kansas City, Mo., Lincoln and Omaha, Nebraska, and Red Oak, Ia.

They found much rain in the midwest, coming through two days of rain on the five and one-half day journey home, but finding all roads in good condition. The Penns formerly lived in Iowa and Nebraska, but have lived in California for 20 years.

TRAVEL SECTION SPONSORS TALK

The Travel section of Junior Ebell will sponsor an illustrated lecture Wednesday at 8:30 p. m. in the Ebell lounge, when Mr. M. Dana Lamb will relate their recent two-year trip to South America via a small canoe.

The program was originally announced for last Friday evening, but was postponed because of conflicting events. It will take the place of the regular afternoon meeting of the section, and the public is urged to attend.

New Director Sorority Has Introduced Its Annual Formal

Senior high school department members of the Baptist Sunday school were honored Sunday afternoon at a reception and tea given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry S. Harlow, 1920 North Ross street, between the hours of four and six o'clock.

Mrs. Harlow, who is superintendent of the department, arranged the affair to introduce the group to their new young people's director, Mrs. H. T. Phelps, who recently came here from San Diego.

In the receiving line with Mr. and Mrs. Harlow and Mrs. Phelps were Mrs. J. J. Vernon, Mrs. Edward Farmer, Mrs. Russell Crouse, Richard Martin, Harry Fink, and Richard Robbins, department teachers, and Mr. Phelps. Lovely musical numbers were enjoyed at intervals throughout the receiving hours, Miss Mildred Marchant favoring with whistling solos, Jack Woods with banjo numbers, Richard Robbins with selections on his cornet, Miss Helen Rittner, piano solos, and Miss Pauline Cave, readings.

Vocal duets by Jane Nalle and Marjorie Flower, accompanied by Mrs. Charles Nalle, and vocal solos by Lenora Marchant concluded the program.

For the tea hour, the hostess had arranged a beautiful table with a centerpiece of silver pine cones and red tapers on a silver mat base.

Mrs. Harry Owings, wife of the minister, and Mrs. Minnie Holmes, student counselor of the church, presided at the tea urns, and others assisting in serving ices and cakes were the Misses Nalle and Flower, two of the artists on the program.

Miss Elizabeth Robinson had charge of the kitchen committee, members of which were the Misses Ruth Lockett, Lenora Marchant, Beulah Cairns, Martha Jane Farwell, and Helen Rittner.

Adding to the charm of the setting were a fire in the fireplace, and red candles and bouquets of poinsettias arranged through the room. Red roses filled a lovely bowl in the reception hall, where more than 75 guests were greeted during the afternoon.

FINGERPRINTING SUBJECT OF DINNER TALK

Some thirty of Santa Ana's Business and Professional Women were fingerprinted last night by Richard E. Lutes, deputy sheriff, after he had delivered an interesting address on the subject at their dinner meeting in the Doris-Kathryn room.

Starting with a plea to his hearers to "spread the gospel" for a more general practice of fingerprinting, the speaker showed by cases and statistics that fingerprints are the most infallible means of identification known. Sixty thousand bodies are yearly assigned to unmarked graves, he pointed out, a fact that could be changed by the use of fingerprints for the federal bureau of identification files.

Mr. Lutes traced the history of fingerprinting from early centuries, and then told of how it is used today in detection of criminals. Photographs of prints were passed around as illustrations.

For their next meeting, the club members will have a Christmas party and an exchange of gifts costing not more than 25 cents, it was announced.

During a business session, presided over by Miss Lena Thomas, Miss Dorothy Kolbe, a federated member from Dubuque, Iowa, was introduced, and Miss Alma Karlson, chairman of the finance committee, announced proceeds of $73 from the recent benefit bridge party.

To aid in Red Cross work, the club voted to purchase the five-dollar bond sent to them, and discussion of other projected Christmas work followed.

Miss Thomas announced that the national president of the Business and Professional Women's clubs had flown out from the East and was speaking last evening in Pasadena at the farm bureau convention.

CLUB SURPRISES BRIDE-TO-BE WITH SHOWER

Members of a sewing club to which the honored guest has belonged for about six years honored Miss Verena Bailey yesterday with a surprise kitchen shower and "bachelor" dinner at the home of Mrs. Bernard Snee, 701 West Third street.

The party was an all-day affair, members gathering in the middle of the morning and spending the day visiting and hearing the plans for Miss Bailey's wedding on New Year's day with Clarence Roberts of San Bernardino.

Kitchen utensils, aprons and other delightful gifts for the new home which is being built for the bride in San Bernardino were presented in the shower; and the members of the club also took this opportunity to exchange Christmas gifts among themselves.

Cat-on-berries and other Yule appointments marked the pretty table, at which places were laid for the guest of honor and her mother, Mrs. A. Erickson; and the Mesdames William Prouse, Frank Brown, Catherine Jost, Ethel Bippus, William Kintz, Errol Barnes, William Swartz and Mrs. Sr.

Mary Stoddard The Grass on Distant Pastures Often Is Not as Green as That at Home

By MARY STODDARD

Many persons, both men and women, would avoid much unhappiness if they would make an effort to stabilize their emotions.

Recently a young wife was on the verge of leaving her husband and setting about to recapture the love of the man she jilted to marry her present mate. They were happy for about two years and then she saw her former sweetheart. He was very recently married, but friends tell her that he is still in love with her and would free himself and go to her if she were free.

Her only complaint with her husband is that he has become careless in his personal appearance and that she has to work hard helping him maintain their business, which is profitable.

Today, many weeks later, brings an answer to her problem from one of our readers which should be of benefit to her:

Dear Miss Stoddard: Ever since I read that letter from the wife who thinks she wants to leave her husband and marry the man she jilted, I've wanted to answer her.

Her problem perhaps sounded too silly to most of your readers to bother with, but it is not silly at all. Her mind has become blotted by the delusions of life.

Did you ever notice the stalks of a rose bush? How gnarled and ugly they look in winter! That is because they have to stand the elements of both winter and summer. If they did not stand these elements there never would be a lovely rose. It is the same with human life. If you do not water the home germ with judgment, sacrifice, patience and co-operation, if you do not warm the home hearth with the heart love, unselfishness and hard work, the home and happiness will never materialize.

Love and happiness are both born within us. They never come from without. You say your husband has grown careless in his personal appearance. Did you ever stop to realize that the selfishness, dissatisfaction and unhappiness expressed in your letter to Miss Mary Stoddard was revealed to him long before you even realized that it was in your heart? And is there anything that would make a man more discouraged with life and self than to wake up and find that he has failed to make the one of his choice, the one he thought would be a helpmate to him through all his ups and downs, happy and satisfied?

If you once loved him, you still do love him and could awaken that love with warmth of your own love, common sense and sympathy. If he once loved you, he still does, and what would kill the spirit of a man quicker than to have his love killed by not having it returned?

If you take your mind off what you think would bring you happiness, and place it within your husband and home and in your own heart and find its true being, you will solve your own problem.

In a very few years, perhaps months, you will gather the rosebuds of happiness from your own home garden and will be the happier and wiser for having cultivated them. It all depends upon how much you really want to bring forth the lovely rose of love.

Unhappiness and discontent are only a state of imagination and selfish greed—they are the thorns of love. Clothing and false pleasures are only tinsel brass and they tarnish and erode. The spring of happiness lies within your own mind and its course is

TUSTIN P.-T. A. POSTPONED WEEK

Tustin Grammar School Parent-Teacher association has postponed its meeting from Thursday, December 10, to Friday, December 18, at 2 o'clock, and has changed the meeting place also to the First Presbyterian church. A symposium is to be held on the subject "Know Your Children's Books," with Miss Dorothy Wentz as leader; and primary classes are to present an operetta, "Santa Claus," under direction of Mrs. Effie J. Mathews.

ORANGE CLUB INVITES ALL TO YULE DANCE

A beautiful winter scene in white, silver and blue will provide the setting for the Christmas dance of the Orange Business and Professional Women's club next Friday night at the Orange American Legion hall, to which the public is invited.

Twenty-five white Christmas trees, ranging from small to very large ones, will be placed around the dance floor, and blue and silver stars will glitter everywhere. Lucy Swain and her orchestra will furnish the music.

Miss Florence Boosey is general chairman of the dance, and decorations are in charge of Mrs. Alice Batterman. Miss Irene Bower will superintend refreshments.

P. E. O.'s HEAR CHRISTMAS SUGGESTIONS

Suggestions for Christmas favors, cake and cookie decorations, and the roasting of turkeys, and recipes for other Christmas menu favors were given to members of the chapter of P. E. O. yesterday by Miss Rosamond Hannah, home economics director of the Southern Counties Gas company.

The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. L. G. Rowell on North Ross street, and the members enjoyed an exchange of favorite recipes among themselves during the afternoon. A 1 o'clock luncheon of pretty appointments preceded the session.

The chapter's Christmas party is to be a 12:45 luncheon on Dec. 21 at the home of Mrs. W. S. Thomson in Tustin.

TAVERN TATTLERS

AN OLD LADY.

D. A. R. Has Yuletide Tea

Christmas greens and poinsettias and cotoneaster berries decked the home of Mrs. I. R. Hendrie, 1110 West Washington, yesterday as a lovely setting for the Christmas meeting of Santa Ana Daughters of the American Revolution, presided over by Mrs. J. H. Nicholson, the regent.

Mrs. W. C. Wilson read the message from the president-general, Mrs. William Becker, and Mrs. H. W. Guthrie reported on the Girl Home Makers. Mrs. Mary Morningstar, chairman of the correct use of the flag, told of misuses of flags she has noted.

Mrs. Jennie Crawford read an interesting paper on "Christmas in the Days of Our Forefathers" and Mrs. O. S. Catland talked on "The History of Christmas and How It Is Celebrated Today."

A tea hour brought the day to a close, the pretty table centered with Christmas poinsettias and Mrs. Minnie Holmes and Mrs. Mac Robbins presiding at the urns. The refreshment committee were Miss Artie Cleaveland, and the Mesdames T. P. McKee, A. J. McFadden, W. C. Wilson, M. J. Eaton, and R. A. Tiernan.

The next meeting, at the home of Mrs. George Bond, 507 East Myrtle street, will have as its subject, "Working of Communism in the United States," and will feature a special speaker.

FIRST TRAVEL GROUP ENJOYS YULE PARTY

Members of first travel section of Santa Ana Ebell club, who have met together for many years in happy fellowship, gathered yesterday for luncheon at the Doris Kathryn room, with Mrs. M. F. Heathman as hostess, later going to the home of Mrs. George Perkins on Riverside drive for a Christmas party.

Gifts were exchanged, and Yule stories were told by the members present. Part of the time was also spent phoning those who were unable to share in Mrs. Perkins' gracious hospitality in her lovely home.

Red berries and Christmas appointments marked the tables at the room, where places were laid for the Mesdames George Smith, E. B. Smith, William Smart, L. J. Carden, George Perkins and M. F. Heathman of Santa Ana, and Mrs. H. C. Dawes of Los Angeles.

The President and the Strike

PRESIDENT Roosevelt is homeward bound. On his arrival in Washington he will find confronting him as first order of business something like a national emergency created by the shipping strike.

It is a national problem and a federal government problem today just as it has been ever since a president's longshoremen's board handed down a 1934 award that only partially settled the issues.

We believe President Roosevelt realizes this fact. And if he does not, he will have realization forced upon him by sufferers from the strike all the way from the ports of France through New York, the Gulf and the Pacific coast to far-off Alaska and Hawaii.

Regardless of what may still be accomplished here by negotiation, action by Washington will still be required if any settlement is to be satisfactory. And this time it must take the form of mediation by men who command the respect of all and whose efforts are backed by the full prestige of the national government.

That means the setting up of a permanent maritime mediation board similar to the board now and for 12 years past functioning with conspicuous success in the railroad industry. It means a board of men who understand industrial relations and who can deal with a difficult situation without fumbling.

Such a board if on the job today could, we believe, very speedily determine just who is blocking the road to peace and why. And it could bring home to those involved their duties in the premises and the penalty in public disesteem to be incurred by maintaining a last-ditch stand.

What we can hope for and what we have a right to expect is that President Roosevelt will concentrate on this particular problem immediately on his return and act promptly. If his aides have not failed him in his absence he should find on his desk a concise and comprehensive analysis of the existing situation and a list of men competent to serve on an emergency mediation board pending the creation of a permanent agency.

Washington action must not be postponed until the convening of congress in January.

But when congress does convene it is to be expected that the President will put high on his list of "must" legislation a measure creating a permanent mediation board to function for shipping as the railroad board has functioned for land transportation.

Britisher lawyer claims that for the King to marry Mrs. Simpson without the government's consent will be unconstitutional. Sounds like a regular American scrap.

Security and Dog Tags

UPHOLDING of the social security act by a federal court in Boston has a happy ring to those who are anxious to see this nation insure its unemployed and aged upon a practical and humanitarian basis.

The decision comes at an especially appropriate moment, with millions of American workers taking advantage of a 10-day extension in time to turn in their social security application blanks into the postoffice.

These blanks, incidentally, are not the dog tags which it was claimed they were during the recent campaign.

If it were not for each person's individual signature, however, something like a dog tag or brand might be necessary to handle this business—or any other business.

It's hard to imagine the chaos which would result if individual signatures were abolished and all of us were suddenly to start writing alike. Checks, mortgages, notes, deeds, insurance policies, wills, receipts, all legal instruments—everything of this nature at all depends finally upon the identification that hand-writing gives.

Individuality of signatures is more certain than the color of the eyes or the hair or the contour of the face or body. These can change. But the signature, like the fingerprint, always retains its salient characteristics.

Yes, we can be thankful that the social security bill with its help for the aged and the jobless has won its first encounter in the courts—and we don't need to worry about being "dog-tagged" as long as old John Hancock survives.

A Portland inventor announces the invention of "bridge chips" for keeping scores. They'd be just another chip on the shoulder for a few players we know.

Along the Gastric Avenue

THE WAY to a man's heart is through his stomach, we are told. It occurs to us that the way to a nation's heart might be along the same gastric avenue.

It is impossible for us to learn the language of all our European neighbors. But we can taste their food.

Drop in your neighbor and swap recipes. Perhaps Mrs. Olson, up the street, will swap a recipe for salt sili in exchange for a Yorkshire pudding recipe.

Of course we can't hike over to Sweden, England or France to make friends. But many of our good Americans are foreign born or of immediate foreign descent. If we learn to understand and like them, we will understand and like their cousins overseas.

At any rate, you'll secure some tasty dishes in the bargain.

Union casket workers in San Francisco threaten to strike. They think the employers aren't coffin up enough pay.

Whimsies of O. O. McIntyre

More and more are established magazine writers and novelists quitting the New York scene. It once seemed imperative they live in or around the big town to be in touch with literary markets. But the literary agent has changed all that.

Most crack writers now deal solely through agents. And save for social calls do not see editors. Greenwich Village, so long a rendezvous for the literati, was almost emptied for awhile. Even writers of pot boilers scattered. The Village was too exploited but there are signs of its coming back.

And the literary colony on West 57th street, just off Central Park West, has thinned. Many are living in remote Connecticut reaches. Sinclair Lewis lives in Vermont and, of course, there is the enormous trek of top scribblers to Hollywood and near-by suburbs.

Indeed, California in the past few years has become America's Literary Belt. More than 50 per cent of the best sellers reside there. The most successful of American woman writers, Kathleen Norris, has been turning out her output on a ranch near San Francisco for years.

The most famous debutante take-off ground—the Ritz Carlton Crystal room—has become a theater for an intimate continental revue. It was first of a series of experimentation by swank hotels to get back lost dinner trade, largely taken by cabaret floor shows. The Crystal room was also for years the scene of the Mayfair Saturday night dances—where, ha, ha, "Broadway thought it was meeting Park avenue and vice versa."

That familiar French axiom, "the more it changes, the more it's the same thing," was never so forcibly illustrated as in the return of red fronted Maxims' in the Rue Royale to the cock-a-hoop dining place of Paris. Until a few months ago Maxims', once the Parisian high spot, looked like drums. Its few sidewalk tables were never occupied and inside patronage was largely the wandering drunk. Even the ecoties deserted. No one knows the why of the renaissance, but in a week's time it became the Chro's and Ritz rolled into one, with tables at premium.

Maxim's achieved the headlines during the high flying days when Harry Thaw was sashaying Evelyn Nesbit about the rake-hell spots of Europe. Maxim's and the Rat Mort in Montmartre, now shuttered, were two of the gilded cafes where Thaw bought wine for all comers and scattered golden pounds. For a year after the Stanford White murder, Maxim's did a land office business among tourists whose curiosity itched to see the scenes of egocentricities.

New York had a Maxim's in the West 30th with a vogue some 20 years ago as a slice of the Tenderloin. It was the first continental place to introduce the roaming, beautiful cigarette girl. Her name was Celeste and she gained so much fame in the Sunday supplement splashes that she married a rich Wyoming ranchman in a marriage-by-mail venture. And now writes occasional Broadway reminiscences for the magazines under a non de plume.

The shrewd cigarette girl can make her job one of the profitable of unskilled callings. I'm told of several in the patronized places who make $60 a week in tips alone. The cigarette girl, aside from beauty, must be somewhat of an actress, walking shyly with eyes cast demurely down. Her most profitable role is injured innocence. Paved by some drunk it's her job to make her naiveive so real he coughs up a fat bill as a shame offering.

New York's Maxim's remains vivid in my memory because it was where my wife and I first saw city wickedness in a goggle-eyed close-up as the guest of Harris Merton Lyon, who knew the ropes. We sat in a red plush curtained box and afterward several of the girls swirled in, scantily clad. They drank champagne, smoked cigarettes and one plopped on my knee. Before I could brush her off she had picked my side coat pocket, where I carried my snap purse. It contained $6 in bills, 35 cents in change and an Ohio buckeye to ward off rheumatism. And I made her give it back, too, by almost crying out loud before all those people.

An Austin, Minn., packing firm has developed a freight car just half the size of the ordinary freight car, to be used for the shipment of perishable foods. It is of all-steel construction. Its makers claim it will cut transportation costs in half, and that refrigeration costs will be equally lowered. Where only a half carload of perishable matter is to be shipped out, these smaller cars will be used.

The Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON.—Launching the selective draft during the World War was child's play compared to the brain-busting job of getting the old age pension system of the Social Security act under way.

The monumental task heaped headaches on the postoffice and treasury departments as well as on the social security board.

The postal service had the responsibility of distributing and collecting the 25,000,000 worker and employer blanks. The quiet efficiency and dispatch with which this huge order was filled gave no inkling of the weeks of work and midnight oil burning that went into the preparations.

With the distribution and gathering of the forms the post-office's job was finished. But that of the treasury and social security board had just started.

They also had been wrestling for weeks with administrative details. And the deliberations between them frequently were acrid. Nominally, control of the old age pension system is vested in the social security board. But the law empowers the treasury to collect the assessments, although the social security board does the actual issuing of the pension checks.

DIVERGENT OBJECTIVES This split administrative responsibility inevitably led to clashes. It soon developed that the treasury and the board approached the problem from sharply divergent points of view.

Concerned only with the collection of the payments, the treasury wanted to keep "paper work" to a minimum. But the board, in a tendency that it needed full information in order to administer the law accurately and fairly, insisted on comprehensive reports.

The two agencies wrangled over the issue for weeks, getting nowhere. Finally Secretary Morgenthau broke the deadlock. He called in his subordinates, told them to give the board its way, and let the board decide what it wants done, was his edict. "Administering this law is the board's responsibility. If we force our views on them we will get the blame if anything goes wrong."

This sound move cleared the super-charged atmosphere. From then on the two agencies worked in better harmony.

KNOTTY PROBLEM A typical problem that put furrows on official brows was the handling of returns from chain corporations. The issue arose whether each store or branch should be required to file a separate report, or the firm's headquarters should file a single report covering all its subsidiaries.

The treasury favored the single return; the board individual reports. After several weeks of debate, it was finally settled by a compromise—the treasury to get a complete report from the corporation's headquarters and the board to receive returns from the individual branches.

ENFORCEMENT Enforcement of the law was an even tougher problem. The law carries no penalty for failure to make a return. If a worker refuses to register there is nothing the board can do about it. The treasury, however, has power under the tax provisions of the law to demand payments and to impose a penalty if they are refused. The question, there-

To the Editor: Air flows like water from a higher to a lower valley through a gap in the surrounding hills. Wind blows through a canyon.

The Santa Ana wind is so called from the Santa Ana canyon whence it comes. The city of Santa Ana has nothing to do with it.

When Mexican people speak of Santa Ana, in ordinary, rapid conversation, they call it Santana, and that is the way it should be. If we would all call it Santana we would be close to right, in spite of our nasal English "a."

People do not say Santa Barbara or Santa Monica. Why do they say Santa Ana, or even Santa Annie? Nobody knows.

If we would call the beautiful city Santana, we will leave Santa Annie to the disagreeable wind.

In the same way Tia Juana (Aunt Jane), whom everybody knows, is called and also written by the Mexicans "Tijuna." "Tijuna" gets rid of Aunt Jane, and "Santana" would get rid of the wind.

Therefore — Three cheers for Santana. T. K. MATHEWSON.

One Man's Opinion

EDITOR'S NOTE—Here is an informative, analytical daily feature on current topics. The opinions expressed in this column are not necessarily the same as those held by The Journal.

Attending to Our Own Business

EVERYBODY will applaud the international neighborliness aroused by the President's visit to Buenos Aires. The expression of mutual goodwill, the friendly handclasp which speaks alike in all languages, the centering of attention upon the assembled delegates, the very act of getting together and discussing problems of general concern—all of these fine gestures may have good results. Anything that smooths the rugged path of international relationship, which rounds off the corners and helps to bring in the reign of peace and decent regard for the rights and feelings of other peoples.

It may be well, however, not to be overly optimistic of immediate and permanent results. The Latin temperament in the New World is not so markedly different from what it is in Europe. The turbulence in Italy and Spain and Portugal during recent decades, and the more than violent upsets in France in earlier years, have been more than matched by the dizzy round of revolutions during the past hundred years in all of Latin America from the Rio Grande to Cape Horn. Free, representative government has never had a sure and easy career in any of the American republics to the south. Violence and dictatorships in Latin Europe have had numerous counterparts in every portion of Latin America.

Why be concerned about Argentine beef when our own cattle business languishes? Why worry about trade agreements in wheat and corn and cotton when our own vast fertile acres lie fallow? Why not put American brains to work supplying the American people with more and more of the products of our own imperial domains and stop messing around with other peoples, whether they be on this side of the Atlantic or huddling in fear-haunted Europe?

Skinny Skribbles

Around and About Town
With C. F. SKIRVIN

I'm not going to worry any more about the tin soldier, so long as he carries a wooden gun, but I have read of occasions where an unloaded gun killed someone. My understanding is that, hereafter the Christmas decorations will come under the observation of a committee on which will be a representative of cloth, who teach peace on earth, good-will to men. I am sure no affront was intended by the committee, but the accident prevents a misunderstanding in the future, maybe it is as well that it happened this year, so that it can be avoided in the year to follow. So do not let it interfere with your Christmas spirit, or your Christmas giving.

Here is a good suggestion for Republicans, if they can get away with it: A printer in Missouri made an error, putting the name of a Republican candidate in the Democratic column on the ballot, and he was elected.

If a fellow wants to drive an automobile while under the influence of liquor, it is all right with me, but I do not care to get in his way. While he isn't entitled to all of the highway, he can have as far as I am concerned. Trouble with a fellow driving in that condition is that you cannot tell when he is going to change his mind, and when he does change it is too late for you to change yours.

My friend, Murray, has a rain scheduled for Dec. 13. I'd like to hear the patter, patter against the window pane, but if it's all right with Murray, he can send it to the orange grove.

I am hearing a lot of nice compliments about the Rev. James H. Sewell for his memorial address before the Elks Lodge of Sorrow last Sunday afternoon. Ministers are expected to offer sympathy when death has left its trail, but the Reverend Sewell has shown a sympathetic understanding of the fraternal purpose that his message touched all those who attended the service. The mystic hour of 11 calls to mind to those who remain the memory of former fellowships. The departed are not forgotten, and on an annual occasion a time is set apart for public recognition and homage. It was on such an event that the Reverend Sewell recalled the duty of brotherhood, the joy of service and the benefits of the love of the army of souls when we pause to remember in gratitude those who are now enrolled as "absent brothers."

I notice where an automobile official by the name of Holler has arrived in Los Angeles to pep up the sales departments.

The bells have begun to tinkle for the Salvation Army kettles. If you feel like extending your holiday benevolences beyond the confines of your home, drop some coins into the kettle, and the army officials will see that your contribution goes into some homes where Santa Claus might not otherwise appear.

A fellow by the name of Looney was arrested for drunk driving. Most of them are.

Presidential windshield stickers are still sticking. Most of them of the Roosevelt variety, but I noticed a Landon and Knox sign, and in the lobby of the Otis building. I thought it was a courageous display, as well as a herald of political repentance.

Here's a piece of fast work. Santa Ana has a "Wally's Shining Palace" in the lobby of the Otis building.

Leonard Foree, automotive service, is preparing to move his place of business to First and Main streets, where the cars stop on signals and the pedestrians do not. Maybe that's why the cars are going to begin tagging the boys and girls who do not discriminate between the green and white lights.

It is all right with me if you want to tell Santa Claus that my phone number is 2032.

Some people do not think past their own noses. Some of them do not think that far, thinks I, as an irritable conversation goes on between a husband and wife while on a shopping tour. The quarrel continued, apparently unmindful of a small son and daughter who overheard the argument, and look up occasionally at their parents, probably mystified at the thrusts and parries. If you have a quarrel, why not go the limit where there are no little children to hear the squabble, and wouldn't it be better to delay the fight until after the holidays and Santa Claus has visited those two little children who had just been extracting a lot of joy out of the toys in the shop windows? And, by the way, what better Christmas present can you bestow than a complacent disposition and liberal toleration? That fellow who wrote something about the art of being kind delivered a sermon in it. If you have a grouch, kick the old fellow out the window before Christmas, and you will have the happiest day of your life.

THEY'RE TH' SKIS AUNT MARY! I'VE GOTTA TAKE IN THE BLOOD-UNF-E-EGAD ALVIN, DID I EVER TELL YOU OF THE TIME MY SKILL ON SKIS SAVED AN ENTIRE SWISS VILLAGE?

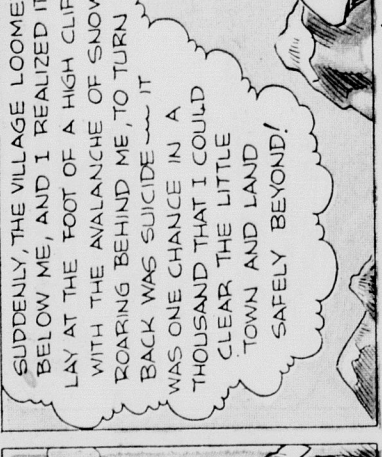

WITH A SWISS PRINCE OF ROYAL BLOOD I WAS EXPLORING ONE OF THE MORE DIFFICULT PEAKS OF THE ALPS, WHEN SUDDENLY A TREMENDOUS ROAR RENT THE AIR!

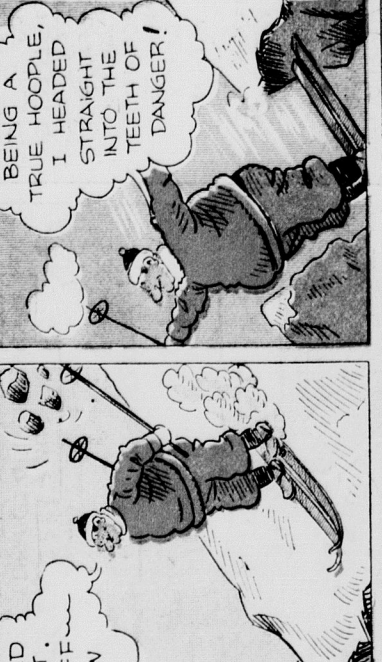

IT'S AN AVALANCHE! LOOK! IT'S HEADED STRAIGHT FOR LORENZ VILLAGE! OH DEAR, MY POOR SUBJECTS!

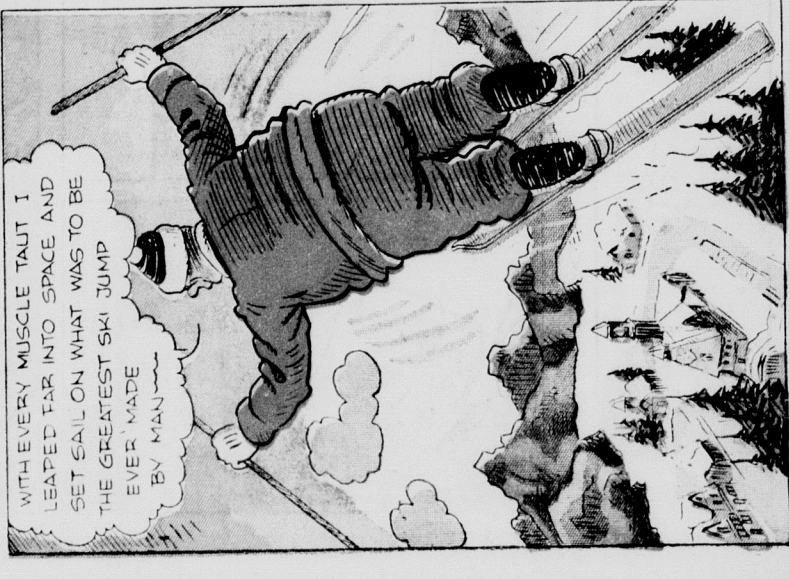

IN A FLASH, I WAS SKIPPING DOWN THE MOUNTAIN SIDE AT SUCH A TREMENDOUS SPEED, THE FRICTION OF SKI AND SNOW BURNED MY FEET, LEAVING A TRAIL OF HISsing STEAM IN MY WAKE!

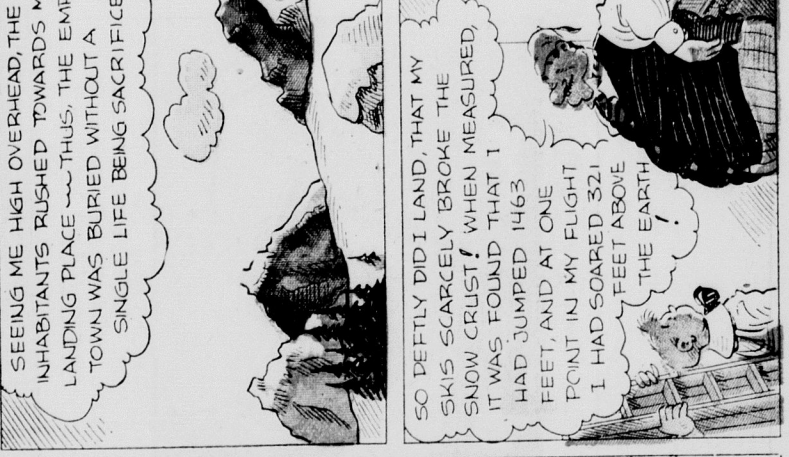

SUDDENLY THE VILLAGE LOOMED BELOW ME, AND I REALIZED IT LAY AT THE FOOT OF A HIGH CLIFF WITH THE AVALANCHE OF SNOW ROARING BEHIND ME TO TURN BACK WAS SUICIDE—IT WAS ONE CHANCE IN A THOUSAND THAT I COULD CLEAR THE LITTLE TOWN AND LAND SAFELY BEYOND!

BEING A TRUE HOOPLE, I HEADED STRAIGHT INTO THE TEETH OF DANGER!

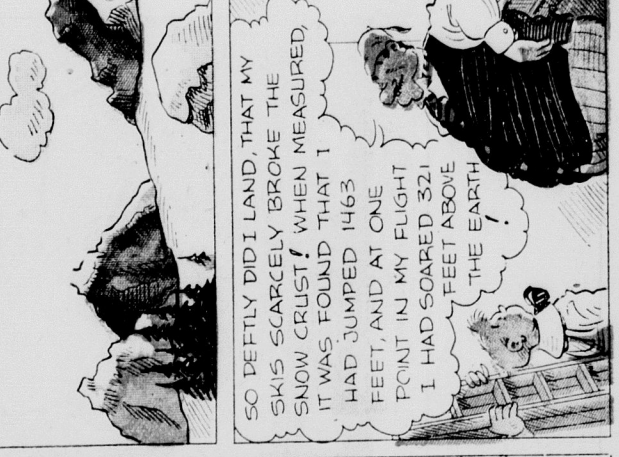

WITH EVERY MUSCLE TAUT I LEAPED FAR INTO SPACE AND SET SAIL ON WHAT WAS TO BE THE GREATEST SKI JUMP EVER MADE BY MAN!

SEEING ME HIGH OVERHEAD THE INHABITANTS RUSHED TOWARDS MY LANDING PLACE—THUS, THE EMPTY TOWN WAS BURIED WITHOUT A SINGLE LIFE BEING SACRIFICED!

SO DEEPLY DID I LAND, THAT MY SKIS SCARCELY BROKE THE SNOW CRUST! WHEN MEASURED IT WAS FOUND THAT I HAD JUMPED 1463 FEET, AND AT ONE POINT IN MY FLIGHT I HAD SOARED 321 FEET ABOVE THE EARTH!

WHAT? SURELY YOU LISTEN, SKI-PILOT, TAKE THIS STEP-LADDER AND SHovel THE SNOW OFF THE PORCH ROOF!

GOOD NEWS, AVRA! I'M GOING TO VISIT MY COUSIN, ALLAN BROCKTON, IN ENGLAND, AND YOU ARE GOING WITH ME!

AND WHO GAVE YOU THAT IDEA, YOUNG MAN?

HUH? WHY I'VE TALKED IT OVER WITH MY UNCLE AND HE THINKS YOU'D HAVE A GRAND TIME AS ALLAN'S GUEST. PLEASE SAY YOU'LL GO!

PERHAPS I'D BETTER SPEAK WITH HIS MAJESTY -

HURRY! WE'RE TO BE AT THE AIRPORT IN TIME FOR THE NOON PLANE!

WE ALL OWE YOU SO MUCH, MISS NORTH. I THOUGHT THE QUIET OF THE ENGLISH COUNTRY SIDE MIGHT HELP YOU RELAX AFTER YOUR HECTIC ADVENTURES HERE.

WELL...

YOU MAY TAKE MY KINDLY WORD YOU WILL BE ROYALLY ENTERTAINED! I'M SURE YOU AND ALLAN WILL FIND A LOT IN COMMON...

IS HE, BY ANY CHANCE, THE ALLAN BROCKTON WHO INVENTED THE MECHANICAL EYE?

THE VERY SAME, MY DEAR. AND WE'RE ALL JUSTLY PROUD OF OUR FAMOUS MIN!

THRILLED AT THE PROSPECT OF MEETING THE BRILLIANT YOUNG SCIENTIST, AVRA IS READY WITHIN THE HOUR, AND WE FIND THE PAIR NEARING THE FLYING FIELD.

CURLY - YOU SHOULD HAVE TOLD ME ABOUT YOUR DISTINGUISHED COUSIN BEFORE -

DON'T WORRY, AVRA. I'LL TELL YOU ALL ABOUT HIM WHEN WE BOARD THE LONDON PLANE.

YOU SEE, ALLAN'S A QUIET CHAP. DOESN'T LIKE TO SEE HIS NAME IN HIS PAPER. IN FACT HE GOT HIS IDEA FOR THE MECHANICAL EYE WHEN HE ACCIDENTALLY SMASHED A PHOTOGRAPHER'S CAMERA.

REALLY?

AS THE PARTS SCATTERED OVER THE STREET, IT STRUCK HIM HOW WONDERFUL IT WOULD BE IF A MACHINE COULD HOLD AN IMPRESSION JUST LIKE A HUMAN EYE, BUT THAT WAS ONLY THE BEGINNING...

THE IDEA GREW AND GREW UNTIL, AFTER YEARS OF HARD WORK, HIS DREAM CAME TRUE. THEY SAY HE STILL IS PERFECTING IT -
